Eisenhower Scores Taft's Stand

President Says U.S. Sticks by UN Allies

Compiled from UP, CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower said flatly today that he does not share the view of Sen. Robert A. Taft that the United States should forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned.

He said the Senate Republican leader is entitled to his own convictions, but that in the president's opinion, a "go-it-alone" policy has no place in American planning.

The chief executive told his news conference that no single free nation can live alone in this world.

The president went on to say that he would not be deflected from his position by the fact that this country alone has the course he has charted.

A reporter pointed out that Taft's position actually was based on the possibility of the truce negotiations failing. This newsman said that he thought Taft made clear that if negotiations fail, then the United States should go it alone, withdraw from further negotiations and finish the war alone if necessary.

The president said that Taft must have meant that the United States should insist on following its own convictions and beliefs. Mr. Eisenhower said he could not believe that Taft wanted to throw out U.S. allies.

Democrats in Congress generally were critical of Taft's position. Republicans reacted cautiously.

Sparkman Would Blame Taft

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) was particularly barbed in his comments. He said Taft may be to blame if the current Korean truce talks collapse, Sparkman said Taft's statement in effect "torpedoed" an armistice statement.

The president warned the newsmen that any discussion of foreign relations on his part might lead to a long lecture, but since the question had been raised, he would talk about it.

He said he has had years of experience in dealing with coalitions and realizes there are certain occasions where action by one nation or one authority might be better.

He said he said co-operative action can not be limited to selected parts of the globe.

He said a nation can not pick and choose where it wants to operate co-operatively or go it alone.

He said that if a nation wants to go it alone in one place, it can live alone in the world, but must have friends.

Eisenhower said he realizes that every man is faced with irritations and frustrations in the business of trying to win world peace, and that men find themselves balked.

Eisenhower said then with much feeling that only patience, optimism and a very deep faith can carry the U.S. forward.

No Single Nation Can Live Alone

He said that if you go it alone in one place, you go it alone everywhere.

Instead of taking that kind of course, Eisenhower said, there must be compromises which will serve the good of all of us.

Those compromises, he added, must be between local conflicting considerations.

He said no single free nation

Pearson Deplores Taft's Remarks

VANCOUVER (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson was concerned Wednesday over the statement by Sen. Robert Taft that the United States might as well forget about the United Nations as far as Korea is concerned.

"If this became U.S. policy it would be a deplorable and a terrible blow to the UN," Mr. Pearson said.

Senator Taft, Senate Republican leader, made the statement in a Cincinnati speech Tuesday night.

Mr. Pearson, in an address to 400 members of the Canadian Club here, warned that the danger of world war would rapidly increase if there were any major splits in the Western alliance.

Great efforts were being made to divide the democracies and to convince them there was no threat to their security, he said.

He did not think it would be wise to press for a general Pacific security pact at this time. The U.S. was not ready for it, and other countries in the Pacific were reluctant, too, he said.

Some were not convinced Communism was the only danger in the Pacific.

"But," he emphasized, "security—like peace—is indivisible."

Mr. Pearson reiterated that the Communists might be recognized as the government of China if they accede to UN Korean peace terms.

Pearson is currently on a speaking tour in western Canada. His statement was issued here by his office as "attributable directly to the minister."

Tyees Make Final Appeal To Save Club

$10,000 Needed In Four Days

By BILL WALKER
Times Sports Editor

Directors of Victoria Baseball & Athletic Co. have resorted to a last-ditch scheme for keeping the Tyees in business for the remainder of the season.

They will put on sale tonight 1,000 books of admission tickets at $10 apiece. The club must have all books sold within four days.

Arthur Cox, club president, pointed out the seriousness of the situation when he telephoned from Vancouver today: "There is every likelihood professional baseball will fold unless the sum of $10,000 is raised by Monday."

Each $10 book will provide baseball followers with 11 tickets.

General manager Reg Patterson explained: "This money will not be used if the full objective of $10,000 is not reached. In that case, money from the tickets sold will be refunded."

The club is currently paying off its 1953 park rental from its share of revenue from billboard advertising and concessions at a rate which will have them paid up for this season by July 1.

Moscow radio, announcing this, said the Soviet control commission in Germany now is abolished.

The Russian-language broadcast, as translated by monitors here, referred to the appointment of a "supreme commissar" but the term could be translated "high commissioner," the same term used by each of the three Western powers for their chief representatives in West Germany.

Abolition of the Soviet control commission parallels, at least on paper, similar steps taken long ago by the three Western occupying powers—Britain, the United States and France.

Closing down of the control commission apparently means the Kremlin is prepared to accord East Germany's Communist-dominated government the trappings, if not the substance, of sovereignty.

Reds Change East German Control Plan

LONDON (AP)—Moscow today removed its army commander in East Germany from all duties except command of Soviet troops and appointed a Russian "supreme commissar" to supervise governmental affairs of the Soviet-occupied zone.

No New Clues On Missing RCAF Bomber

NORTH BEND, Ore. (CP)—A search party was told by a veteran informant today that a big plane circled a lonely Oregon mountain at about the time a Canadian bomber vanished before dawn Tuesday with 10 men aboard.

But the ground party drew a blank in its hunt for the wreckage of the four-engined RCAF Lancaster, piloted by FO Kenneth E. Elden of Kye Bay, B.C., on a long trip to San Diego.

The first report that a plane was seen in the area came from George Montgomery, a logger who lives in a cabin at the 2,300-foot level of Salmon Mountain, 10 miles south of Powers, Ore.

Another man, Faires Ford, said today he heard a big plane circling in bad weather.

The U.S. coast guard said two planes tried to search Salmon Mountain area today but were driven back by low clouds. Some 20 planes, including six Canadian aircraft, and two coast guard cutters are taking part in the hunt.

Mendes-France To Try to Form New Government

PARIS (CP)—President Vincent Auriol, still trying to end the crisis in French politics, today asked Pierre Mendes-France of the radical socialist party to make an attempt to form a government.

HUTCHISON AT THE CORONATION

Bruce Pictures an Ecstatic London; Queen Presides at Gala Garden Fete

(Following is the first of the dispatches by Bruce Hutchison, editor of the Victoria Times, who is now in London to cover the Coronation. Mr. Hutchison has just returned to England after a tour of the continent. His description of the colorful Coronation day scene itself will be featured in The Times next Tuesday).

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LONDON—"Pop" Mundy of Story Street, Islington, a lean, wrinkled little man of 82, has seen four coronations, is preparing for his fifth, and whether he knows it or not is the spirit of London incarnate.

At this electric moment in England's history he spends his lonely nights as a factory watchman. At dawn he becomes a coronation in tattered cockney cap and shirt-sleeves.

He is desperately putting final touches to his masterpiece—transformation of Story Street from bombed-out relic of Hitler's blitz into a royal avenue of blossom and banners worthy of his Queen.

Mr. Mundy's paint brush has covered all the rusty railings of Story Street with stripes of red, white and blue. For weeks now, as his private testament of defiance and hope, he has been painting huge Union Jacks on broken brick walls which still proclaim the heroism of England's little people and with the help of Mrs. Rosie Saars, the florist on the corner, he is filling all the windows of Story Street with flowers, bunting and golden paper crowns.

By the morning of Coronation day every wartime scar on this shattered little fragment of London will be hidden and by Coronation night, with a fund of £120 raised by neighbors, Story Street will announce its loyalty to Queen Elizabeth in its own fashion.

An accordion band, a barrel organ, a party for 116 children, foot races and a talent contest on a stage built over a bombed basement will compete the last Coronation which Mr. Mundy expects to see.

For all London, save the children, it will be the last Coronation and it will be the last the most splendid in the long pageant of British monarchy.

While every humble street is making its private plans for the great day the centre of the city along the Coronation parade route has suddenly become unrecognizable under such a cascade of color as the world has never seen before.

Busy Queen Keeps Smiling

Extra Police Break Up Milling Crowd at Abbey

LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth presided today at the first gala garden party of the Coronation year at Buckingham Palace.

Seven thousand guests from the United States, the Commonwealth and much of the rest of the world, filled the vast palace lawns, under brilliant spring sunshine.

A great crowd gathered outside the palace to see the distinguished guests arrive while behind the spike-topped walls the Queen moved gracefully among the throng, nodding and smiling to the visitors.

Long striped awnings covered tables where guests took tea and cakes, iced coffee and lemonade.

Military bands played throughout the two-hour party. Meanwhile, another large crowd, so large that police reinforcements were called to break it up, gathered at the entrance to Westminster Abbey where Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and other members of the Royal family were rehearsing their own procession.

Police had to clear a path through the Westminster Abbey crowds for arriving dignitaries, but before they could do so the Earl and Countess of Harwood were engulfed by good-natured sight-seers and had to struggle through to the Abbey entrance.

THE ALTERNATIVE VOTE

Counting of Ballots Not Too Complicated

In the June 9 election B.C. for the second time will use the alternative, or transferable-voting system. It is still a new thing to many voters. In response to requests from many of its subscribers, The Times is carrying a series of six articles daily this week explaining various features of alternative voting as a public service. They are written by Leslie Fox, managing editor, who spent 15 years as a reporter covering provincial affairs. This is article 4.

By LESLIE FOX

No. 1 mark on your ballot is now dead as far as the election is concerned. Your No. 2 becomes the man you voted for.

After the second count is completed, if there is still no majority, the same process is repeated with the next low man.

Here is where your third choice mark may come into play. Supposing you voted for Roe as No. 1, G. Stiles as No. 2 and Doe as No. 3.

British Failure On Everest Now Confirmed

Expedition Starts Descent Next Week

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—Reliable reports reaching here today said the British Everest expedition failed in two attempts to reach the 29,002-foot top of Mt. Everest, the world's highest peak. No man ever has scaled it and returned to tell about it.

The expedition now is returning from the Himalayan giant, with plans to make another try after the monsoon season.

(The story of the two attempts and failures reported by the United Press was carried by The Times in the Monday edition. No other news agency carried the dispatch, which time has proven to be correct.)

Highly reliable sources said the expedition will start the descent from the base camp the first week in June, and it is definite there will be no more attempts this season.

The sources added that nature played the same old bad trick again, bone-chilling winds, nerve-killing, blinding snow and an approaching treacherous monsoon, which would make a delayed return dangerous.

Thus Col. John Hunt's attempt has gone the way of 10 others before him. Nine of these attempts have been British and two Swiss.

B.C. GOVERNMENT COST PYRAMIDING

Debt Gain of $30,000 Daily Points
Need to 'Pay as You Go,' Says Socred

At the present rate of increase the cost of running the province of British Columbia is $40,000 greater every day than it was the day before, according to Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

He told an audience of 50 at Esquimalt's Fraser Street Hall Wednesday night that to keep up with the expenses of government it is necessary to sink a further $30,000 into debt daily.

"No wonder we want a pay-as-you-go policy," he added.

Mr. Gunderson, who appeared in support of Esquimalt Socred candidate, Herbert Bruch, said that charges that the Socreds had brought about their own defeat was "a lot of poppycock."

The stumbling block, Bill 79, contained points that the opposition liked, he claimed, and they could have brought about changes in the parts they didn't like if they had allowed the bill to go to committee.

He described as silly remarks made by his Oak Bay Liberal opponent, P. A. Gibbs, regarding the equalization of assessment measure, Bill 45.

Mr. Bruch, said that the Socreds had brought about their own defeat was "a lot of poppycock."

Legion Fears Liquor Probe Suggestions

Stevens' Report May Hurt Trade

NANAIMO — Representatives of British Columbia's 180 Canadian Legion branches raised strenuous objection Wednesday to many of the recommendations of the Stevens Liquor Report which, if implemented, would affect their premises.

The matter was the main topic considered by the 21st convention of the Legion's provincial command at its final session here.

The Legionnaires made clear that they didn't require dining room facilities in their clubrooms and didn't want to go to the expense of providing them, just to have the right to serve liquor.

They also asked that they have the right to enroll honorary members for their clubs, up to 45 per cent of regular membership, and criticized the suggestion from the liquor committee that "guests" not be allowed to make purchases in clubrooms.

The command was concerned that something might be done to interfere with present practice of some Legion branches borrowing from brewery concerns.

The Legion wanted assurance that Legion branches, now having beer or liquor privileges, would be allowed to retain these privileges even though their district might vote "dry."

8,500 Chinese Reds Hit Allied Outposts

SEOUL (AP)—Violent fighting erupted along the Korean battle line today as more than 8,500 Chinese Communists attacked Allied positions on the east-central and western fronts.

The Reds threw elements of three regiments, about 6,500 men, into an assault along a 20-mile sector in central Korea before dawn and wrested five outposts from South Koreans.

A few hours later three Communist battalions, more than 2,000 men, struck five strategic outposts on the western front. The Reds hit outposts Vegas, Carson, Elko, Berlin and East Berlin. The Red attack was the biggest in weeks.

Allied lines in the Finger ridge sector of the east central front bore the brunt of the Red charge, the army said.

Girl and Boy Given Call To Heidt Talent Try-Out

Sixty Victorians seeking a chance to appear on the Horace Heidt Show to be presented at Memorial Arena here June 3, turned out in full regalia Wednesday night to strut before Heidt's audition man, John Murphy.

Included in the enthusiastic force of young talent were newlyweds of 15 minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spitkosky.

Fred, a seaman from HMCS

Naden, waved good-bye to the minister and raced with his bride straight to radio station CJVI for a talent try-out.

His lovely young bride, Donna, waited patiently while Fred sang a rousing song to Mr. Murphy in a fine bass voice.

The auditioning took three hours.

At the conclusion Mr. Murphy thanked everyone, told them they were all good, and selected Esquimalt High School soprano Mimi Bavin, 1149 Wychbury, and harmonica player Gordon Letnes of 1421 Harrison, to appear on the Heidt program. Each will receive $25.

U.S. Spy Plot Charges Held 'Frame-Up'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Romanian diplomat Cristache Zambeti said today his expulsion from the United States on spy plot charges "is only a frame-up."

Zambeti, first secretary of the Romanian legation here, said he plans to leave New York for Europe at around 2:30 p.m. EDT Friday aboard a Sabena line plane.

The state department expelled Zambeti on charges he tried to blackmail a U.S. citizen, V. C. Georgescu of New York, into spying for the Reds.

He raised the possibility, according to the department, that Georgescu might get to see his two minor sons, held in Romania, if he "collaborated."

Georgescu refused. Taking the chance that the Communists might retaliate against his boys, he exposed Zambeti to the FBI.

Reached by telephone for the first time since ordered out of the country, Zambeti said he had been framed.

"This is only a frame-up," he said, adding: "That's the only statement."

Meanwhile, the state department turned down suggestions from outraged citizens that the United States hold Zambeti as a hostage until Romania frees Georgescu's sons.

SOCREDS CLAIMED WELFARE'S ENEMY

Society's Progress Threatened
CCF's Cameron Tells Slim Audience

The Social Credit Party will do its best to destroy the foundations of the welfare society which is developing in B.C., Victoria CCF candidate Colin Cameron told an audience of 16 in Burnside School Wednesday night.

Such means as the "Rolson Formula" and "further attacks on education" would be among the means used, Mr. Cameron warned.

The Socreds will continue to reduce allotments for adult education, Pro-Rec and library services—all things that tend to improve the educational, recreational and moral life of the community, the speaker said. "They cost money," he said. "A very curious economy with efficiency."

CCF Represents Working Man

Until the rise of the CCF as a major political force the "ordinary workingman" was not represented in a parliament or legislature by one of his own kind, Mr. Cameron said.

The "illusion" that the Socreds are a people's party, he said, has been dispelled, when "a lot of well-known Conservative faces are seen peeping from the branches of the tree—like Mrs. Rolston, Bonner and Gunderson, a pillar of conservative, orthodox finance."

Referring to a CCF goal of an ultimately provincially owned and controlled forest industry, Mr. Cameron stated last year the sum of $145,000,000 in wages was paid by all branches of B.C. forest industry and products sold for a total of $512,000,000.

With wage costs usually estimated at half the total cost of production, he felt it left more than $200,000,000 in one year which did not appear in the wage or other cost factors.

Victoria CCF candidate Victor Allen Gayed the Liberal, PC and Socred leaders for "running one another down" at a meeting in Vancouver but still urging the electorate "to vote 1-2-3 for free enterprise."

The Political Pot

Colin Cameron, Victoria CCF candidate thinks it's a good thing for the city that Percy Wright, assistant city clerk is running for the Legislature as a Victoria Socred.

"If Mr. Wright knows so little about municipal finance as his recent radio statement revealed the City Hall is no place for him," Mr. Cameron told an election meeting Wednesday night.

CCF Leader Arnold Webster will be in Victoria Friday for his only capital city appearance in the campaign.

He will address a public meeting in the lower ballroom of the Crystal Gardens at 8 p.m.

Alan Hawthornthwaite, who calls himself "Frank Partridge's brother," failed to get his questions on monetary reform answered by Attorney-General Robert Bonner and other Socreds at various Socred meetings, so he went to a CCF meeting to try to get an answer Wednesday night.

Inflation across the land was the view of Colin Cameron, CCF candidate, "if anyone is so imbecile" as to try to institute the Socred monetary theory.

"I've attended all the Socred meetings," interjected Mr. Hawthornthwaite. "They're nothing but a bunch of blasting hypocrites."

The audience laughed at the rally.

A statement attributed to H. R. MacMillan, timber magnate, was used by Colin Cameron, Victoria CCF candidate, as an argument for electing the CCF in B.C. when he spoke at Burnside School Wednesday night.

"Mr. MacMillan, who of course is Mr. Timber in B.C. told an Alberni audience that Socialism may be 'alright for you people but not for us,'" said Mr. Cameron. "But there are more of us than there are of Mr. MacMillan, so I suggest Socialism is alright for the vast majority."

First it was Socred Tom Irwin who was "threatened."

Now it's Socred Whit Stanbury, ex-Tory, who says anonymous callers have kept his phone jangling.

"We'll fix you and that goes for your wife, too," Mr. Stanbury said one caller stated.

Finance Minister Gunderson was "out of bounds" at a meeting Wednesday night.

A staunch supporter, and former employee, of the Alberta government, the minister told his audience "there's no

LAING ASSAILS

would throw onto the municipal treasuries would be crippling, he said.

"But the government isn't worrying about the municipal treasuries. It's worrying about the provincial treasury, Finance Minister Gunderson admitted that in his budget address," said the leader.

It's the same tactic used by Alberta—"pass the burden onto the municipalities."

He felt B.C.'s Dawson Creek and Alberta's Grand Prairie, two comparable cities, gave a good example of the two province's treatment of municipalities.

Dawson Creek, he said, has a mill rate of 27.5 mills and right across the border in Alberta Grand Prairie's tax rate is 87.5 mills.

"It'd do a lot of British Columbians a lot of good to have a look at Alberta. They haven't even a decent road in the province. People in B.C. would never tolerate the standard of living there," he contended.

The Liberal party, he promised, will see that the provincial government carries 80 per cent of education costs.

Social Credit, he claimed, is "the only outfit which has gone from boom to bust in five weeks."

Premier Bennett, he recalled, said at the outset of the campaign B.C. is in the midst of "the boom year of all boom years."

Five weeks later, he added, Finance Minister Gunderson is "talking depression" and heavier taxation at the same time.

"The CCF used to be the party which talked depression, but now the Socreds have taken over," said Mr. Laing.

He objected to Socred plans to increase taxation on lumbering and mining enterprises.

"Our economy is a gentle flower which can't be trampled on by men with feet like Gunderson," said Mr. Laing.

Socred policies, such as funny money and increased taxation all around, should make businessmen shudder.

He rapped businessmen's "blind fear" of Socialism and advised them to "wake up" to the danger of Social Credit which is "10 times worse than Socialism."

The Socreds, he pointed out, have admitted they want to put purchasing power in the hands of the people before it goes through the channels of industry.

"This would mean the ruin of all of you small businessmen in 24 hours," Mr. Laing said.

He said it doesn't matter whether you "drown the cat with warm water or cold water—you're going to have a dead cat."

He again challenged Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Education Minister Rolston to "tell the people before June 9 if they believe in Socred monetary reform principles."

Premier Bennett, he said, already has admitted he's a "funny-money boy."

Social Credit policies, as enunciated by party leaders, would most assuredly lead to a "slave state," Mr. Laing charged.

He took a verbal poke at Premier Bennett for quibbling with the press over attendance at Socred meetings.

"If we have come down to the point of arguing over who gets the biggest crowds, we have come to a pretty pass in B.C.," commented Mr. Laing.

He scoffed at Socred claims that the party is a "people's movement."

"The Socreds have spent $400,000 in this campaign," he said, "where the money is coming from."

Mr. Laing charged the government with "talking depression" and J. A. Reid to make the now famous "sex in schools" speech in the Legislature so the Socreds could tamper with the curriculum.

Candidate Bradshaw, striking out at Socred hospital insurance policies, said persons who have paid their premiums for years are just as entitled to a refund as those delinquents the government is now forgiving.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Laing addressed a noon luncheon of 80 persons at Qualicum.

Comox Liberal candidate Jack Baikie told the gathering the Socreds were "full of bunk" when they said they were the only group with the experience to form a government.

RCMP Look Into New Destruction in B.C.

NELSON (BUP)—The RCMP said today they were investigating what may be new destruction by Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

A broken power pole, splintered at the base, cut off electricity for two hours Wednesday in areas south of Cottonwood Lake, near here. However, police said no traces of dynamite had been found around the broken line, running along a road.

Meanwhile, factions of the radical Freedomites were jockeying for position in the Kootenays.

Just 48 hours after 200 Sons of Freedom threw off all recognized authority over their religious sect, another group of 200 Freedomites reaffirmed allegiance to Stefan S. Sorokin, their "beloved spiritual leader."

The "Reformed Christian Doukhobors" charged that the earlier meeting was instigated by John Lebedoff, a convicted conspirator now trying to pick up the reins of Freedomite leadership.

John Perepelkin, chairman of the "allegiance meeting," said members unanimously confirmed support for the 35-man consultative committee on Doukhobors at the University of British Columbia.

In Vancouver, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he had asked the federal government to consider passing a special law that would "isolate the fanatical Russian religious sect. The Freedomites would be isolated in the Kootenays, or another part of the country, until they 'change their ways,' he suggested.

Just five days ago Langley high school's Dave Stafford completed the distance in the same time to end the 20-year drought of Olympic-calibre sprinters in B.C.

The 10-second mark was set in 1927 by Percy Williams, who later became an Olympic champion, and was matched by Howie McPhee in 1933.

Track Dispute To Be Aired

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Directors of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association will meet with some of Hollywood Park's board of directors Monday to discuss their latest disagreement.

The bone of contention is the doubling by the track of two of its $50,000 stakes races and the increase of five $10,000 ones to $15,000. The Westerner and the Sunset Handicap were the races doubled.

The HBPA contends that under settlement of their recent boycott at the track on the 4-2-65 basis it was understood the extra money was to be put into overnight purses to "help the little fellow."

The Labors of Mr. McCarthy

THE SHARP ATTACK delivered against Britain by several U.S. senators the other day apparently has not rocked the tight little isle to its base. Nor has the dire warning that accompanied the McCarthy charges that British ships have been carrying Communist troops in the Far East done much to stir Whitehall.

Typical of the official reaction to the charges was the comment of a foreign office spokesman to the effect that it is difficult to investigate the truth of an accusation involving an unnamed ship of unknown tonnage carrying alleged troops from one unspecified port to an unspecified destination on a date not made clear.

But the senatorial choler again drew attention to the fact that Britain and some other countries continue to trade with Red China. What McCarthy and his supporters did not bother to mention is that Britain's trade in this regard is limited to certain commodities which have been agreed upon by the west as non-strategic, and that Britain stands to gain more from the trade than the benefits derived by China.

On a legal basis there can be no criticism of such commerce. There is no official "state of war" existing between Britain and China, nor even between the United States and China for that matter. The undeclared hostilities, however, create a situation in which all exports must be carefully scrutinized for their effect on the military effort of the enemy.

The Two Approaches

THERE ARE MANY WHO FEEL today that democracy is not being tough enough in combatting communism and those who serve it. On the other hand there are many who do not wish to see democracy adopt the ruthlessness of the authoritarian state, even in an ideological fight for life. By so doing, they feel, democracy would lose the humanitarian view of the individual which is the crux of the difference between the two ways of life.

The difference is exemplified by two news stories which appeared on the same page in Wednesday's issue of the Times.

One item reported that four alleged spies had been shot in Russia, accused of parachuting into the country with "diversionist terrorist assignments." The Russians charged that the men had been dropped from an unmarked U.S. bomber (categorically denied by the United States) and their execution was swift.

In contrast to this was the item telling of a fourth appeal from the death sentence to be launched by Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted of spying on atomic secrets and conveying them to Russia. The Recently, for instance, Britain refused the application of some manufacturers of antibiotics to ship their products to China. It was held that while these could be used by civilians, and perhaps even for the benefit of prisoners of war, they would also be of value to Chinese troops.

That is the side of the picture, well known in the White House, to which Mr. McCarthy turns a blind eye when indulging in his diatribes. To try to blockade by sea a country which is part of the largest continent of the globe, sharing back fences with a friendly nation of untold resources, would rival the labors of Hercules. Apart from the impossibility of complete blockade, the obvious result would be to thrust China completely into the arms of its Communist neighbor, force it to become dependent, and aid to the creation of another Red satellite.

The opposite course—full trade in all goods, strategic or otherwise—is equally undesirable. But if China is not to be perpetually "enemy territory," if an eventual measure of co-operation between China and the west is ever to be achieved, it may well have its roots in trade, the exchange of commodities which each side requires for better living.

That sort of a deal is being worked out with another Communist nation—Yugoslavia—and could be, when Korea has become past history, a mode of operation with China that would deal a serious blow to aggressive Russian imperialism.

seriousness of their activities would appear to be far in excess of the charges against the four alleged parachute agents, yet many months after their conviction they are still alive, still seeking legal loopholes, still hopeful—and not without some reason—that they may yet escape the doubtful honor of being the first civilians in the U.S. to pay the supreme penalty for espionage.

The question thus extends beyond the bare facts surrounding individual cases and becomes a problem of one's attitude to life. It's the soft answer, the twice-turned cheek, the justice tempered with mercy and recognition of the accused's right to every recourse of law—as opposed to the omnipotence of the state, the adherence to stern legalities, the law unaltered by humanitarian considerations.

Each system has its arguments, each has serious dangers. But only one of them has the qualities that make life worth living, that render existence something more than machine-like subservience to the state. It is strange that homo sapiens appears in many cases to have so much difficulty in choosing.

It's Up to the Fans

THE ATTITUDE OF DIRECTORS of Victoria's baseball club on the current box-office crisis can be readily appreciated. In effect, the directors say: we've done about all we can, from now on, it's up to the fans.

It hardly seems fair that a small group of baseball-minded citizens should bear the brunt of the financial ills confronting the club. Their work has been voluntary, and without pay. They have given Victoria a winning club which enjoys at least a lip-service popularity with the fans. In their efforts to save the game in this area, many of them have gone substantially into personal holdings to tide the Tyees over recurring crises.

It is a pity that these officials have had to buck not only inclement weather but actual hostility from certain officials at City Hall. The fact is that the Tyees are asked to pay a rental more than double that of the league average, for inferior accommodation. The city of Edmonton, for instance, recently entered the Western International League with a first-class stadium and a token rental which would give the club a chance to operate.

What the City Hall critics fail to recognize is that the Tyees are today not a profit-making professional business venture but a "citizens' team," owned by several hundred fans who took stock in the drive to rescue the game two winters ago.

Nor have businessmen, with a few notable exceptions, supported the Tyees in a manner commensurate with the advertising value accruing to the city from membership in the WIL. The Chamber of Commerce frequently complains that there are few attractions in Victoria to hold the tourists here overnight. Baseball is one of them.

Each night these games are played, the news-tickers are flashing the results to a hundred newspapers in western Canada and the United States—and each one of them mentions the name "Victoria." Surely the advantages of such publicity to the tourist trade should be obvious.

Granted all these considerations, the fact remains that the life or death of the Tyees now depends on the weather. If the fans turn out in sufficient numbers for the new series, the team may be able to survive another financial crisis and thus limp through the season.

If, on the other hand, the box-office support does not materialize, fans will recognize the reluctant necessity of directors to strike out.

The Silent Treatment

VICTORIANS SHOULD TAKE some pride in the assertion of the smooth-talking Dr. James Endicott that this city provided a "definitely hostile" audience for his address.

Hecklers apparently concentrated more on the points the Communist apologist left out than those he included in his speech. There can be little doubt that he provided answers to all questions—Kremlin emissaries are well trained if nothing else—but whether the answers were convincing remains another question.

As long as a few glib listeners may still be found to absorb the pratings of such speakers as the recent winner of the Stalin prize for "peace," it is just as well that non-believers attend to keep the record straight. But the correct reception for the Dr. Endicotts of the world is not an audience, hostile or otherwise. It is a complete absence of any listeners whatsoever—a silent, darkened hall in which only the intending speaker appears.

When that becomes the rule there will be no need for hecklers. The Moscow missionaries will be quietly ignored, quietly rejected and quietly forgotten. Their story will have been judged and found wanting—a pleasant prospect indeed.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Castles on the Rhine

ON THE RHINE—"The people of the Rhine," said out host, a genial man and a former captain in Hitler's army, "are different from any in Germany. They are lovely. They are, oh, so crazy. It is, you know, the wine."

We were sitting at midnight in a tiny wine house, hidden among dark, crooked streets where few foreigners find their way. Here the people of the Rhine were being lovely and, oh, so crazy. I suppose the main room of that house, which had been built five centuries ago, was about 40 feet long and 20 wide. Into it the proprietor, a mild little man with an egg-like head, had crammed a dozen large tables, a three-piece orchestra and about 50 guests. And you never saw so much fun in your life.

HOUR after hour, with hardly a pause for a glass of schnapps, the handsome, blond accordion player, the worried little man with the guitar and the giant with the cello convulsed the guests by a ceaseless din of old-time German music. I say convulsed, for everyone in that hot little room was dancing like crazy and singing loudly enough to wake the whole town.

Most of the tunes were lively and comic, in praise of wine, women and song. Then the leader of the orchestra would down a noggin of schnapps and turn sentimental. When he played Strauss' waltzes and dreamy love songs there was no more laughter. As solemnly as if they were in church, the guests sang the sickly sentimental choruses, joined hands at the table and swayed with the music.

TRANSLATED by our host, the songs told of the ancient glories of Germany, the sadness of life, the brief passage of man. Some of the girls cried a little as they sang. In the next moment the tune changed and everybody was dancing again.

"You see," said our host, "they are all crazy. It is the wine."

They were not drunk; a trifle exhilarated, perhaps, by the superb vintage of the Rhine Valley, but no one was misbehaving in the slightest. The crowd was having a cheap innocent evening of fun in a fashion as old as German history and quite unconsciously, was exhibiting the central mystery of the German species.

For these people here—joyful and childlike as we can never be in America—were the same people who twice smashed the world in our time, who followed Hitler from Paris to the gates of Moscow and still cannot believe that they did any wrong.

AS WE sat in that clamor of music and voices, hard by a broken castle and a few yards from the glistening Rhine, there came to us a veteran of the last war, a colonel who had been wounded in the days of the Normandy invasion. He had taken us for English people and he wanted to say, through our interpreter, that the English soldiers, in his experience, were as good as the German. He could say no more.

Commanding a regiment of his own, this man had captured 32 British parachute troops in the first days of the invasion. He had tried to make them talk. They would say nothing. They would not even tell him their home address so that he could advise their relatives. Not a word. Those were soldiers. After a few more songs and drinks, the veteran began to talk of Hitler and he told a fantastic tale. With some other officers, he said, he had been invited to Hitler's headquarters early in the war and there he had been astonished. No, he had been terrified.

AT FIRST he thought Hitler drunk or sick. The Fuehrer came into the room swaying and with glazed eyes. He was flanked on both sides by four officers of high rank who seemed almost to support him, lest he fall to the floor. Looking straight ahead as if in a trance, Hitler said nothing until his eyes caught those of his eight lieutenants. Suddenly, staring straight at them and no one else, he began to shout a speech which lasted nearly an hour.

"They say," said the veteran, "that Hitler was a hypnotist. He may have been. But that night, I tell you, the man was hypnotized by those eight others. His eyes never left theirs. He could not speak, he could hardly stand without them. When I came home I told my wife Hitler is not a man. He is a medium. So he was. Not a lunatic, as you think, but a medium."

AND WHAT a medium! Suddenly drawing himself up and squaring his shoulders, the German cried out: "Think of it! This little nation could fight the whole world for five years! What other people could do that? And then the Americans, the poor fools! When we surrendered and offered to push the Russians back into Russia—and we could, easily—oh, no, the Americans would not let us. They said, 'No, the Russians come to Berlin.'"

"You see what happened. Was there ever anything so mad? So now we have no power. Very well, the Americans must deal with the Russians. And the French! We laugh always at the French. They don't know how to fight. So you are in a fine mess, no?"

I DID not attempt to argue this proposition. It would have been useless in any case and quite impossible in that shouting wine house. For about an hour the former Nazi officer retold the history of Germany from the time of Blucher onwards (Blucher had crossed the Rhine here on the ice in one of his most famous exploits against Napoleon) and to me at least, it was appalling.

This man had learned nothing and forgotten nothing. With him peace was an unnatural incident in the course of war and he looked forward to normal times, a final clash between the Americans and the Russians, with confidence.

HE REPRESENTED, I fancied, the Mr. Hyde of the German soul. The Dr. Jekyll spoke in the singing voices of the wine drinkers. We were observing the split personality of a great people who, in a nation three years younger than Canada, have often led western civilization only to turn upon it like barbarians.

The veteran shook our hands ceremoniously, bowing stiffly from the waist, and then, having predicted the third world war, was dancing and singing with the others. We wandered down the labyrinth of black streets to behold the moon dancing on the vineyards and floating on the oily current of the Rhine, which makes the people lovely and, oh so crazy.

A Hospital on the West Coast

(Open Letter to the Minister of Health and Welfare)

The people of Ucluelet are awaiting an answer from your office to the brief presented to you April 16, asking for an investigation into the present situation which exists on the West Coast of Vancouver Island as a result of your approval for the building of a hospital to serve the Ucluelet-Tofino area.

We have also asked that your department consider the use of a former RCAF hospital, which has been offered as a hospital to serve this area, a building valued at $100,000, which can be renovated, equipped and furnished for approximately $30,000.

It would seem logical that the government should consider this proposal rather than the spending of $146,000 of federal and provincial funds towards the building of a new $127,000 hospital.

As we have informed you, a survey was conducted of the Ucluelet area covering a population of over 500 people and the results indicated a strong majority in favor of the renovation of this building.

The commissioner of the incorporated village of Ucluelet wrote on March 30, requesting an investigation and to date no answer has been received.

The Ucluelet-Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce communicated with your department on April 17, asking for an investigation and they have received no answer.

A democratic government responsible to the electorate should, out of courtesy, give consideration to a request suggesting a wise and economic expenditure of public funds.

Since you have seen fit to refrain from giving an official answer to the Ucluelet

Hospital committee in response to the above-mentioned, we would now ask that you issue a public statement through the press.

The Ucluelet Hospital committee is not unmindful of the native Indian population which such a hospital would serve, and a hospital operating in either Tofino or Ucluelet would adequately serve the needs of the 1,000 Indians in this area.

Any hospital operating in either Tofino or Ucluelet is going to be nothing more than an emergency hospital because the population does not warrant the practice of any more than two doctors (there being only one at the present time), and serious cases have always been, and will continue to be, transferred to a larger hospital where more medical practitioners and facilities are available. And when the much-publicized proposed road is finally built linking these two villages with Port Alberni, the population will then have more ready access to the new $1,000,000 hospital in Port Alberni.

STILL PERTINENT

On the first day of May, 1945, a group of officers and correspondents, waiting for the end in Germany, speculated on what had happened to Hitler. The greater question was posed by a military government officer: "Never mind what happened to Hitler," he said. "We better start thinking about what happened to the Hitler Youth."

Eight years later this is still pertinent.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Do the electors realize how unemployment has grown since the Social Credit party came into office?

Let them take a look at the unemployment office and see the lines of men seeking jobs and no prospect of finding one. And this, too, in the time of year when there is generally least unemployment.

CHAPEL WANTED

Although it has been said, with some truth, that it is the prerogative of an old soldier to grumble, the writer, as patient of the Veterans' Hospital, has only one grouse, and that is, on account of the patients of the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria not having facilities to attend divine services in the hospital every Sunday—services being conducted by our popular padre, the Rev. Douglas Kendal, only on every other Sunday.

The writer earnestly trusts that an annex to the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria, in the form of a chapel, will soon be built by the Department of Veterans' Affairs—a requisite that should be carried out without delay—offering our padre facilities for holding divine services, funerals, etc., in the Veterans' Chapel, erected for the above purpose for the glory of God.

The writer, therefore, trusts that until such time as the Veterans' Chapel is finally built, that, if possible, arrangements will be made by our padre, assisted by the clergy and choir of the various denominations in Victoria and district, to hold divine services on each and every Sunday, in the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria.

HOOT MON!

In Saturday's edition of the Times you published a letter from Mr. C. G. Campbell which concerned the "Tobacco Road" play. I did not go to see this and in consequence have no definite views on the matter, but Mr. Campbell finishes his letter by saying, "Come on, Victoria, let's smarten up and forget this little bit of Olde England."

I fail to see what makes Mr. Campbell think that a discussion as to the merits or demerits of a play affords a suitable occasion for him to air what is obviously one of his pet prejudices.

Anybody, however, suffering from an affliction of this kind no doubt deserves our pity and I have been wondering a little just what would be the best method of effecting a cure—possibly if it would be a good idea to send him to England for three months and then when he came back he would no doubt be quite ready to apologize in full for having had ideas of this kind in his head.

I would suggest that the arena would be a suitable place and I feel sure that there would be no difficulty at all in finding a large audience from among those who were either born in England or were of English descent and were quite unable to see why they should be ashamed of it. I would also think it likely that there might be more than one bearing the honored name of "Campbell" who would be glad to assist and, of course, the "Macdonalds" would be there in force—if it were only to hear a "Campbell" apologizing.

FRANK DISCUSSION

Recently in her column Dorothy Thompson commented on the apparent petting out of Mental Health Week, May 3 to 10, in the U.S.A. This serves as a reminder that the same week was held in Canada and apparently met with equally little response. Does not this provoke speculation as to the reason for public apathy concerning what we are so frequently told is this continent's No. 1 health problem?

Would it be easier to arouse interest if the term Social Health were to be substituted for Mental Health? The latter so often meets with hostility.

The socially well-adjusted or healthy person or community will not fall a prey to mental illness.

In listing possible causes of mental illness, Dorothy Thompson omits the basic cause, namely, the fixed idea. Since the majority of adults were conditioned in youth by and to fixed ideas, it is not in the least surprising that mental illness is so common.

The main problem facing us today is that of getting fixed ideas unfixed. We all know how almost valueless are well-formed bodies if the minds they house are dominated by fixed ideas. Mind and body cannot be divided and the two must work in harmony if health is to be maintained. Moreover, minds cannot be healthy without fellowship that is free from fear and therefore does not discriminate between humans and allows frank discussion of all differences.

MARIAN N. SHERMAN,

NOT EQUAL

I see Mr. Chant says he would build four-lane highways the length of the Island and also across the Island, and this would all be done without the present "insidious" taxation but rather with a reduction in taxes and without any borrowing.

Let us not be led down the garden path of fantasy, so sweet to contemplate, but so utterly unrealistic. Let us study the present many issues of Social literature, take note of the things they are saying and then do some quiet thinking. If Social MLA's, candidates and adherents express themselves unwilling to accept Social doctrines why should the average citizen accept such theories?

As one Social said at a recent meeting when the minister of finance was "stumped" for an answer, "we accept the Bible without understanding it (appliance) why not accept Social Credit the same way." That is purely religious fanaticism.

Since when should experimental political theories be compared and equalled with God's word?

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE,
151 Beach Drive.

SADDER BUT WISER

The voters are the ones who pay the taxes and should be fully interested in how those taxes are spent.

The government of our British Columbia is big business now.

So, there must be able, experienced and honest men and women to direct this big business.

We used to be proud of the manner in which our parliament was conducted in Victoria, but this distinctive procedure was entirely lacking while the last session was carried on.

Is British Columbia going to forget its Madam Speaker, the only province in the Dominion to claim that distinction, who carried out that office with skill and dignity, of which we were all proud?

Also Mr. Strath by his long experience in business and his tact helped over several difficult situations; it is those qualities which carry weight in guiding the business of this growing province.

Then Mr. Gibbs has proved his business ability and honesty in the manner that he has handled the affairs of Oak Bay.

Again, when we look over the outstanding work done by the late Mr. Carson—he left a lasting and useful monument in the fine highways he built, over which the public can travel with pleasure and in safety over them.

The voters wanted a change here, so by a fluke the Social Credit party had a majority of one; and wanted to govern. Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, their leader, has been possessed by only one aim, that is to bring on another election—and now he has done it.

He had the opportunity to show to the thoughtful people of British Columbia he was trying to give them good government.

If he had done this even under trying conditions he would have won support from all classes, for that is one thing this province should have—a government giving them the highest possible in service.

So any party which feels they can give this service must pick for their members, men who have natural ability, a broad understanding of all conditions; and who above all are strictly honest.

I gave a vote for Social Credit last year, but have been so much disappointed that the vote was cast for them.

Yours for a good government.

PRO BONO PUBLICO.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

Beauty and Blight

ONE of the more pleasant features of an election campaign is that it usually provides me with an opportunity to see something of the interior of the province. I have just returned from a speaking trip into some of the loveliest parts of British Columbia, including the Okanagan Valley, the Similkameen and down through Princeton to Hope.

To me, this interlude between spring and summer is the most beautiful time of the year. True, I arrived in the Okanagan just too late to see the peach blossom in all its fleeting glory. But I will recall from earlier visits in other years, for instance, across Kaimalka Lake at peach blossom time, and the cloud of pink that waves below on the Coldstream ranch.

But it is the lace-like green of the trees, the shimmer of green on hills so quickly destined to turn brown under the summer sun, that enchants the eye. Around Armstrong, I was fascinated by the acres and acres of young green celery tips just peeping above ground, in symmetrical rows of almost geometric precision.

GARDENERS AND KNEES

Every single plant is placed in the ground by hand, and in all those acres there was not one single weed to mar the picture of perfection. And as I watched the Chinese gardeners crouched at their work I thought of Kipling's lines:

"Oh, Adam was a gardener, and God who made him kneed
That half a proper gardener's work
Is done upon his knees."

Incidentally, I learned that these Armstrong celery crops are all the result of dry farming. The soil is rich black loam, quite distinct from that in the Vernon area, for instance.

Farther on, in the area around Vernon and right down into the southern part of the lush Okanagan Valley, the hills were ablaze with wild sunflowers, which reminded me of the black-eyed Susans of Britain, and wild mauve lupin and deeper purple larkspur.

Looking across the iridescent lakes, the distant hills look as if covered with a carpet patterned in delicate pastel tones of yellow and the two tones of mauve—something quite distinctive from Vancouver Island's own particular early summer beauty.

On the way from Kelowna to Penticton, I noticed great patches of a wild flower which looked to me, in passing, like a wild mauve pentstemon. And as we came down through the Hope-Princeton Highway, acres and acres of wild rhododendrons were just beginning to burst open in all their pinky-mauve glory under the trees.

'ONLY MAN IS VILE'

In the midst of all that beauty, we came across one salutary reminder of the lines about "every prospect pleases but only man is vile." In the heart of the awe-inspiring Manning Park, you suddenly come across great denuded areas where literally hundreds of thousands of burned trees stand like gaunt, grey ghosts.

As we reached the area, I noticed a huge sign, erected by the British Columbia Forest Service. It read: "One Camper Made This 5,760 Acres Look Like This. Be Careful." And at the farthest limit of the scorched earth was erected an enormous gallows. From the gibbet hung a huge replica of a lit cigarette butt, and the notice: "The One Who Dropped It Should Also Be Hanged."

It is about five years since a careless camper caused the conflagration that burned over those 5,760 acres of forest parkland. And so deep did the scorch go that there is still not even the faintest shimmer of green. Unfortunately the person who caused it will probably never know what his carelessness caused, more's the pity.

Turning Their Backs on Stalin?

THE EDITORIAL in Pravda commenting on Churchill's speech, gives much support to the notion that inside the Kremlin a strongly nationalist party is in the ascendant. There have been many indications—not adding up however to proof—that at the time of Stalin's death a palace revolution may have occurred in which the Stalinist old guard was put down by soldiers and officials, concerned with defending and consolidating the position which Russia had won by her victories in the world war.

This is the theory which, so at least it seems to me, fits better than any other that I have heard what little we know about Russian affairs. It may sound far-fetched but it could be a fact that what we are dealing with in the Soviet Union today may be not unlike what we might have been dealing with in Germany if the conspiracy of the generals and officials of July 20, 1944, had been successful. Those post-Hitler Germans would have gotten rid of the worst features of Nazism but they would undoubtedly have defended stubbornly, and in large measure successfully, the national interest of the German state at home and abroad.

The post-Stalin Russians show every sign of defending stubbornly, not the practices of the Stalinist regime but, the substance of the Russian interest.

The style and language of the editorial, as of the earlier one replying to the President, are those of a great power addressing other great powers. The central purpose is manifest: it is to force the Western powers to negotiate a settlement in Europe which recognizes that Russia is a European power with vital interests in all Central and East European questions.

There is no suggestion whatsoever that the Russians have any intention of disinterestedly themselves in Europe and of withdrawing into isolation within their frontiers, or of turning their back on Europe and moving into Asia. As I read the editorial, they mean to defend—but not necessarily by military occupation or even by satellitism in the Stalinist and Cominform manner—the European position which Marshal Zhukov's armies won for the Russian empire.

They may, in fact, have come to think that military occupation is, as is always the case, a wasting asset and a growing liability. It may well be that they have realized too—increasingly since Tito's defection—that the Stalinist domination of the satellites has been undermining, has been making odious and intolerable, the Russian sphere of influence in Central and Eastern Europe.

Speaking symbolically, it could be that in order to preserve the essential victory of Zhukov, it has become necessary to do away with the Stalinist corruption and perversion of that victory.

This is, I must remind the reader, a speculation. But I, at least, find nothing to contradict it and much to confirm it in the Pravda editorial. Those who wrote it and approved it are quite plainly men who had a leading part in the war, who remember that war vividly and think of peace with the West as a resumption of the relations which developed during the war.

They do not discuss the cold war, and they do not talk the language of the cold war. They sound to me like men who would rather forget it than talk about it—indeed as men who, like Marshal Zhukov, may have been silenced and repressed during the cold war.

Twins Face Novel Problem

NEW YORK (UP)—It's twice as hard to become a famous actress when there are two of you with the same idea—and the same face.

This double trouble was related sadly today by a couple of young ladies who are identical, even to their ambitions. They're twins, Dran and Tani Seitz. They are 24, pretty, congenial and not satisfied with the usual run of twin acts in show business.

"I want to do Camille," sighed Tani. "I want to do Juliet," sighed Dran.

Why don't they go job hunting separately? Tani claims she would be quite content to step aside if Dran got a big dramatic role offered her, and vice versa. But they've done so much work together that producers think of them as a pair.

"Sometimes they say they don't want to offer one of us a part because of hurting the other one's feelings," said Dran, or Tani. "It wouldn't though," said Tani, or maybe Dran.

They have a confusing habit of finishing each other's sentences, until it's almost impossible to know who said what.

They like each other, which is the main reason they've stayed together. Besides they just got mildly encouraged by getting parts as twin sisters in a 3-D movie, a combination that seems rare enough to encourage anybody.

They won't look exactly alike in the movie, which is based on Mickey Spillane's who-dun-it "I the Jury." Tani became a brunette temporarily just before the picture offer (the girls are Norwegian, which explains the unusual names and the naturally blonde hair).

"They said my hair would fall out if they tried to get the color out of it," Tani explained.

"She looks funny, blonde" at the roots, usually it's the other way," Dran said. "She uses carbon paper to cover up the roots sometimes..."

"But it was raining today and I was afraid it would run," finished Tani. "We never really wanted to make a movie too much," said Dran. "We thought the stage was the real theatre."

"In Hollywood you're accepted as a beauty or a cutie," Tani said solemnly. "We want to be actresses."

Both girls had a beauty mole in the same spot on their upper lip.

"Here is the phony," whispered Tani. "We're really identical," said Dran.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1953—641.6 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: A very weak disturbance which crossed the northern coastal regions of British Columbia during the night is expected to drift slowly southward during the next 24 to 48 hours. Light rain or drizzle occurred over the Queen Charlotte and along the northern mainland but little significant precipitation is likely to result from its passage over the southern areas. Cloud cover has decreased considerably in the southern interior but scattered showers are to be expected in the central and northern regions.

O.C. Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—Rain affected all but one cricket game in England Wednesday.

In a trial for the forthcoming Test international against Australia, England scored 120 for two wickets against the Rest before rain stopped play.

Sussex dismissed Derbyshire for 204 runs in a full day's play at Derby. Medium-pace bowler Ian Thomson took four Derbyshire wickets for 55 runs. John Langridge and Ken Suttle opened for Sussex, hitting 100 not out before the close.

Close-of-play scores: Lancashire vs. Australian Tourists, no play Wednesday, rain. Marylebone Cricket Club 73 for three, vs. Hampshire. Cambridge University vs. Warwickshire, no play Wednesday, rain. Essex 100 for six vs. Northamptonshire. Glamorgan no runs for no wicket vs. Kent, rain. England Eleven 120 for two, vs. The Rest, Test trial, rain restricted play. Derbyshire 204, Sussex 100 for no wicket. Middlesex 241 for seven vs. Oxford University. Surrey 200, Somerset 24 for three. Northumberland 273, Yorkshire 97 for two. Gloucestershire 144 for five vs. Leicestershire, rain.

HUTCHISON IN LONDON

By a stroke of some invisible enchanter's wand the gaunt, grey stone of London gushes into a gigantic garden, dripping in full bloom.

This mighty spectacle, though it has the appearance of fairyland and a touch of the miraculous, is the product of long planning and labor now, in its last, feverish moments. Day and night around the clock thousands of workmen are putting final touches to an artist's dream.

Carpenters are desperately knocking stands together on the processional way, painters are splashing naked boardings with brilliant hues and thousands of flagpoles are being cemented into pavements as if Coronation Day would last a century.

HEAVY GATES

Lofty gates, six inches of solid timber which will control the tide of traffic are installed strongly enough to repel an invading army and the beloved statue of Eros in Piccadilly, newly gilded, is protected in the golden cage in the heart of the only nation which would imprison the God of Love.

All this splendor is built according to plan. In perfect harmony of color and design the curved flanks of Regent Street, for perhaps a solid mile, have sprouted pink Tudor roses, four feet in diameter, to honor the lady who bears the proud name of Tudor name.

The City, from Fleet Street into the cramped regions of the Bank of England and the Tower, permits nothing but the scarlet cross of St. George on gigantic banners topped by royal crowns too big for a hundred human heads. Oxford Street is arched with scarlet, purple and gold.

Literally millions of people ooze slowly through packed streets to gaze at a mediaeval fortress which has hung out its flags in victory. They are the laughing crowds of the best natured city in the world. At times traffic is completely stalled—a pedestrian may not cover a block in ten minutes—but even in almost tropical heat this week you never saw a sign of irritation on the impassive faces of hobbles or heard a cross word among hurried taxi drivers and bus conductors before the multitude which flocks to Buckingham Palace whenever the Queen is expected to leave for a rehearsal in the Abbey. Sentries might be scarlet statues but for the perspiration dripping from underneath their cruel bearskin-hats.

POLYGLOT CROWD

All manner of men and women fit through this swaying caravanserai. Arabs in flowing robes, African princes in vivid nightshirts, American tourists in short sleeves, and the superb dark figure of Her Majesty Queen Salote of Tonga, a Polynesian lady, six feet three in her bare feet and tall enough in high heels to tower above all competition.

Snowsell Points to Oil Companies As Prize Examples of Monopoly

Oil companies are a prize example of monopoly dictatorship in Canada, Frank Snowsell, CCF candidate, told a house meeting on Logan Avenue Wednesday night.

On Tuesday this week the gas station where I deal was told over the phone that the price of premium gas was up half a cent, and up went the price," related Mr. Snowsell.

"There was no arbitration, no request for permission, the oil companies decided they wanted a boost and up the price went." Mr. Snowsell contrasted "this with the process when the workers want a raise in wages to meet the cost of living."

IT RAINED!

But Wellington, Moffat, an aged taxi-driver who knows England's climate better than the experts refused to wait his parched garden. Tomorrow, he said, it will rain and privately he blamed the authorities for holding the Coronation in the most unsettled period of the year.

Mr. Moffat was right. On the morning, to general horror, a gentle deluge emptied the streets of strollers, drenched several millions of dollars worth of bunting and set the whole town wondering how long colors could stand this test.

At the time of writing they are standing it well. A careful inspection of the processional route shows all vivid dyes holding fast, the pink roses of Regent Street unfaded and dew-pearled in their stone garden and all flags sodden but flapping gaily in a brisk, drying wind off channel.

What of the weather on the great day? Amid all this nation's daunting problems that is the only worry on the mind of London as it prepares to crown a Queen and in that crowning proclaim its faith.

GIBBS BRANDS SC 'DICTATORSHIP'

Liberal Oak Bay Candidate Tells Rally Government One of 'Broken Promises'

Anyone who has studied Social Credit's doctrine would agree that the party was fundamentally a dictatorship, Reeve P. E. Gibbs, Liberal candidate in Oak Bay, told a Monterey School audience of 65 Wednesday night.

"I'm not alone in my thoughts on this," he said, quoting from an newspaper article in which the Socreds were branded "as definitely of a totalitarian nature."

At the close of the meeting a man asked: "Will there be any change in the milk control should your party be returned as a government?"

"There will be no decision on this question until we've made a thorough investigation of both the industry and the consumer," Mr. Gibbs replied.

NEVER PRESENTED

Mr. Gibbs termed the Social Credit Government as "the government of broken promises." He quoted many points where "the government let the public down."

The new liquor bill promised by the Socreds was never presented, he said. "They destroyed the confidence of both management and labor by forming a part-time board," he charged.

"The premier now admits that hospital insurance is compulsory and yet—delinquents who deliberately failed to pay... were shamefully allowed to get away with it," the candidate claimed.

Mr. Gibbs was strongly against the "Rolson Formula" for education costs, adding "it

Poison Bought By Girl Took Lives of Three

AILSA CRAIG, Ont. (UP)—Mrs. Cora May Lewis and her two daughters were poisoned by strychnine which one of the daughters bought, a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night.

Bushworker Alvin Lewis discovered his daughters, Shirley May, 14, and Mildred Jan, 11, lying dead beside the body of his 42-year-old wife when he returned from work April 3.

The jury found the older daughter had bought the poison on the strength of a note written by her mother and signed with the father's name.

It was believed Mrs. Lewis, who had suffered a nervous condition for 10 years, dosed soda pop and candy bars with the strychnine and poisoned herself and the children.

Lumber Operators Nominate Lawyer To Sit on Board

VANCOUVER (CP)—C. George Robson, a lawyer, has been chosen by Forest Industrial Relations Limited to represent 160 Coast lumber operators in conciliation proceedings with the International Woodworkers of America (CIO).

The union, representing 32,000 B.C. Coast loggers, had previously announced Bob Smeal, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees' official from Victoria, as its representative.

Proceedings will get underway as soon as a chairman has been agreed upon.

A-A Force, 500 Strong, to Join Exercise

Close to 500 officers and men of Victoria's two active army force ack-ack batteries, 119 and 129, will leave for Vancouver this week-end to participate in training exercises.

Design of the scheme is to test west coast anti-aircraft defenses in what is classed as a realistic training exercise during the period of June 1 to 13. The soldiers will be subjected to mock enemy air attacks. The exercise has been named "Thunder Bird." Gun-sites and radar establishments at Ambleside Park, Jericho and Sea Island, will be linked by radio and telephone to the anti-aircraft operations centre at North Jericho.

Reserve force men of the 43rd HAA Regt. and 7 AAOC, both of Vancouver, will participate in the scheme. Objectives of the exercise is to provide a period of stimulated war conditions and training for units concerned.

Commanders of the local ack-ack RCA units are Maj. W. Alan Platt, 119, and Maj. Thomas Moore, 129 Battery. The 119 Battery is stationed at Work Point Barracks, 129 at Gordon Head Army Camp.

New Brunswick forests, the source of the province's principal industry, cover about 21,900 square miles.

IT'S MY VIEW

By JACK WALKER, Sports Editor

You know what the real deal would be in this baseball business, now that the real baseball fans have shown to a certain degree that they do appreciate their baseball, is to have a gala night here . . . say on Saturday.

The city fathers could proclaim some sort of a "baseball day" . . . all the politicians could parade in front of the grandstand, arm-in-arm with their bristling throwing rivals; the local service clubs could commandeer their respective memberships and form separate rooting sections; the Shamrocks could play a game of baseball against a cricket side, each using their respective weapons, the Tyees booster club auxiliary could serve tea in the grandstand, and the Jaycees' Little Leaguers could act as ushers.

It certainly would make for a big event. And certainly, too, a big event of a nature resembling this, is needed. The only point is: Are those concerned big enough to harbor such an idea? out of respect, at least, to the defending league champions, if nothing else.

We think so, but like the Irishman, we have to be shown.

Okay Tyees, take it from there; you can't lose. Matter of fact, the Tyees never have been duly honored for their title victory, have they? Well, have they?

Meanwhile the Shamrocks keep rolling along like old man river. Coach Red McMillan is currying no favors from his stars as they glitter in the light of their ascendancy to the top of the Intercity Lacrosse League heap. He benches the old hands and the rookies come through for him like champions.

And this policy of McMillan's in changing his line-up with each succeeding game should certainly provide a reserve of talent from which he can pluck the required calibre of competitor he needs if the occasion demands it. And undoubtedly it will, as already has been proven in the case of Archie Brown and Arnold Ferguson, the loss of whom has hardly been noticed of late.

Spectators who wondered at the fact that a galleryite picked up Bob Morrison's ball on the 15th green in his recent Island championship golf match with Bob Fleming, when Fleming asked for the ball to be marked, need worry no further. This is what is called "the rub of the green," the same as if an errant tee-shot, or the like, strikes a spectator. As we understand it, why should a player be penalized for such action when it is not of his doing or intent? Think what the repercussions could be if such was a violation of the rules of the game. Ethics then would be the deciding factor, and noble and appreciated as they are, ethics should never replace a 30-foot putt under pressure.

The ABC bowling tourney hits Seattle next year, but some city gals have stolen a march on the males. . . . Marge Beane, Mary Welsh, Lorna Luney, Marnie Worth and Kay Bone came home from Tacoma with prize money from the annual NIBC tourney. . . . Lorna and Marnie Latham picked up some of the doubles money that was being handed out, too. . . . And to Mrs. Sutcliffe, an apologetic and humble thank you. . . . your daughter, Margaret Todd, and Babs Davis have a score to settle with the Brits. . . . "they put like fiends," Margaret said, discussing their last international match. . . . We know how Bob Morrison must have been feeling when Bob Fleming started to whittle down his five-hole lead in the final nine holes in the Island open. . . . Babs and I were four up in one match with two English girls. . . . and we lost! After last night one begins to wonder if a good, old-fashioned "wake" wouldn't be in order for the Tyees. . . . it would get some response, at that.

Williams 'Mr. Big' As Odd Fellows Win

Most things are in miniature in Little League Baseball, but Barry Williams was a king-size hero to his Odd Fellow team-mates Wednesday night.

Williams spanked a line drive triple off the fence in the bottom of the sixth inning last night to send home two runs and give Odd Fellows a 10-9 victory over Rotary.

The big blow ended a sparkling duel between the two clubs and climaxed a long comeback by the winners.

Odd Fellows gave nine-year-old moundsman George Hemming his first start and, while the stylish youngster gave up six runs in the three innings he pitched, Rotary could touch him for only two hits, the runs being the result of control trouble.

It was 8-8 going into the eighth inning when Rotary got a single run to move ahead.

In the bottom of the inning, Glen Rycroft walked Barry Sadler and was lifted for reliever Jim Peters, who hit George Williams. Williams then bounced his long drive off the left-field fence to win the game.

EDWARDS WINNER
Bob Edwards, who replaced Hemming in the third, was the winning pitcher.

Line score follows:
Rotary 204 201-9 R H E
Oddfellows 512 502-10 15 7
Rycroft, Peters (4) and Watson, Hemming, Edwards (3) and Williams.

IRISH STRETCH LEAD

Virtuous Sons Fall Easy Prey

Shamrocks 19, Nanaimo 10

By DENNY BOYD

It was Sir Galahad or Sir Lancelot, or one of those knight-errant types of King Arthur's Court, who made the epic statement: "My strength is as the strength of 10 because my heart is pure."

That motto may have done in the days of derring-do but 12 tired Nanaimo Native Sons would have told you late Wednesday night that such a motto is for the birds that sing in the spring, tra-la.

These were the Native Sons who, heading as edict from Intercity Lacrosse League headquarters, have laid aside their warring instincts. The Sons tried to play it straight Wednesday and wound up on the short end of a 19-10 score for their pains.

The Sons, even John Lumley, were perfect gentlemen until the late minutes of the game, but even virtue failed them as the Rocks, led by a brilliant Whitey Severson, made a rout of the game in the second half after a fairly even first half.

The Sons picked up only 14 minutes in penalties, five minutes coming on a major to Ralph Gowan in the last minute of the game after a skirmish with Larry Booth.

BACKFIRE
And while the Sons did their best to behave, even Shamrock penalties boomeranged on them.

In the second period, Rocks' Booth was thumbed for cross-checking, and before he was even off the floor, Severson scored a goal for the short-handed Irish.

Severson added another a minute later and Sarge Sammartino popped in a third—all while Nanaimo had a man advantage.

Severson was brilliant. Going into the game with a five-points-a-game average, he bettered his standard by scoring five goals and assisting twice. His spurge put him almost out of sight in the individual scoring race.

Besides his point scoring, Severson seemed tireless in setting up plays, picking off loose balls and checking. His was one of the best one-man-performance presented for boxers in many a day.

The Vernon cutie, Sarge Sammartino, was another Nanaimo headache, driving four nails into the Native Sons' coffin with four goals.

It was 3-2 for Victoria at the end of the first quarter and 8-6 at the half. The Rocks ramped in the third quarter to outscore Sons 8-2 and added three more goals in the last heat when tempers began to fray under the strain.

FULLA DOES PART
Fred Fulla's courageous goal-keeping—he stopped 36 shots—kept the game from getting even more one-sided as did a four-goal bag by eastern import Vern Vanatter.

The Irish will attempt to increase their three-point first-place lead tonight when they travel to New Westminster.

Rocks coach Red McMillan announced that rookie Dave Unwin will get his first start in goal tonight and that Bob Anderson will move up to the forward line in Jim Ranson's place. Len Scott will be back in the line-up and Mel Davison will replace Bill Bamford on defense.

Minor Boxla
Bruce McLay and Les Brice, of Tigers and Stubbs respectively, went on five-goal spurges at Memorial Arena Wednesday night as Tigers downed Stubbs 17-13 in a Diaper League lacrosse game.

The tiny tads played as a preliminary to the Shamrock-Nanaimo game.

Scorers follow:
Tigers—Bruce McLay (5), Bill Carter (3), Don Craigdale (2), Charlie Rose (2), Paul Collett, Dave Collett, Reggie Hodgkinson, Morris Reid, Moore (1 each).

Stubbs—Les Brice (5), Alan Foster (2), Bruce Humby, Doug Richardson, Bill Roberts, Jack Crabbie, George Martin, Ricky Young (1 each).

MINOR BASEBALL

Pitchers Hold Edge

A pair of neat three-hit shut-outs pitched by the high lights of Wednesday's minor baseball action.

Kerry McKenzie of Oak Bay Oaks was the author of the first as he blanked Master Plumbers, a 12-0 win over Fairfield in a 14-and-under game at Macdonald Park.

Lynn Eastwood hit a home run for the winners.

Eagles protected their undefeated record in the Bantam League at Macdonald Park with a 12-1 victory over Bernie Nichols.

Terry Lore set the losers down with two hits, struck out nine and hit a home run as did team-mate Jack Banfield. Eagles played errorless ball behind Lore.

ing he took from Jimmy Carter in Boston, Tommy Collins was dropped out of the lightweight division to the feather class, where he is ranked third.

Carter's leading contender is George Araujo of Providence. The pair meet for the title at Madison Square Garden June 12.

As usual Jimmy Carter of New York leads the lightweights. Fourth place is awarded to Arthur King, Toronto, and fifth to Armand Savoie, Montreal.

Prior Does Bit To 'Save' Tyees

Smart Relief Job Gives Club Sweep Over Chiefs

Victoria 2, Wenatchee 1
By BILL WALKER

Bill Prior did most of the saving that baseball got in the city Wednesday night as the Tyees edged Wenatchee Chiefs, 2-1, to sweep the three-game WIL series.

The strong armed right-hander gave a brilliant exhibition of relief pitching before a small crowd of 657 which certainly isn't par for the course if baseball is to remain as a summer sport here.

Prior came to the rescue of starter Zebadiah Walker, whose main fault was wildness, with the Chiefs leading 1-0, two men on base, two balls on the batter, Harry Bartolomei, and nobody out in the sixth inning.

He got Bartolomei on a fly ball, gave up a single to pitcher Rick Botelho to load the bases, and then struck out Chuck Malmberg and Red Stanford.

He allowed an infield hit to Botelho in the ninth and that was all. He struck out the side in the eighth, whiffing six in the ninth.

Walker gave up only three hits, but walked seven. The lone Wenatchee run came in the fifth inning when Tom Munoz doubled, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Botelho's outfield fly.

BOTELHO TROUBLE SOME
Botelho was the Chief's Tyees respected most. Besides getting two of the five hits, he drove in the only Wenatchee run and actually deserved a better fate in view of his fine mound performance.

Jim Clark's line single to centre which got by Mike McCormick, Clark ending up on third, led to the Tyees tying run in the sixth, Matt Martin singling home the tally.

Bases on balls, of which he issued 10, finally caused Botelho's downfall. He walked Lu Brannham to open the seventh. Brannham was moved up on a sacrifice. Cec Garriot walked and Gale Taylor singled Brannham home with the winning run.

A minor rhabar highlighted the contest, Bartolomei touching off the foolish display by getting the gate for objecting to umpire Yuhase's opinion of a third called strike in the eighth. Before Bartolomei had the water at a temperate state, pitcher Laurie Munroe, who wasn't even in the game, and manager Mike McCormick had joined him, and rightly so.

Language such as was heard only allowed the Chiefs to make obvious spectacles of themselves.

BEARS HERE TONIGHT
Tyees take their three-game winning streak and their re-found 500 percentage into tonight's opening game of a four-game series with Yakima Bears.

Big Bill Bottler has been nominated to keep the win streak alive and show the fans that the Tyees, at least, are proving that they deserve the right to stay in baseball.

Game time is 8.

McCooley Loser In Seniors' Tourney
VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Vancouver players and shot-makers from Trail and Vernon were scheduled to tee off today in the semifinals of the British Columbia Senior golf tournament at Shaughnessy course here.

Jack Stoke eliminated medalist Larry McCooley of Victoria while five-time champion Bill Pierce beat Dr. L. Strong to remain the Vancouver contender in the race.

Pete McIntyre of Trail ousted Vancouver's Jim Galloway and Dr. Sam Hannah beat Harry Pryke of Victoria to keep the Okanagan represented in the championship.

Eskimos Halt Indians, Broncs, Stamps Split
Spokane's Western International Baseball League winning streak ended Thursday, thanks to the big bat wielded by Edmontons' Whitely Thompson.

Thompson came to the plate in the 15th inning of a marathon game at Edmontons Wednesday night and lashed a driving single through Bill Franks at the mound. It scored Don Herman from third with the run that put the Eskimos on in front 3-2 and stopped the Indians as they were reaching for their ninth straight win.

Actually the score was Edmontons 3, Spokane 2. Thompson's home run with one aboard in the third inning accounted for Edmontons' other tallies.

Both Franks and Edmontons' Ray McNulty toiled the full 15 innings, Franks giving up nine hits and McNulty 10.

Front-running Lewiston, back in action after a pain of rain-outs at Calgary, split a double-header with the Stampede, winning the opener 7-1 but dropping the second game 4-3.

Russ Butler fashioned a neat three-hitter for the Broncs in the seven-inning first game. Calgary's Bob Schulte held the victors to five safeties in the nightcap.

Tom Delarto and Jack Thompson teamed to produce a three-hitter for Yakima at Vancouver's Jim Galloway and Dr. Sam Hannah beat Harry Pryke of Victoria to keep the Okanagan represented in the championship.

ROCKY 'FIGHTER OF MONTH'; CHARLES No. 1 CHALLENGER

Joe Drops in Fistic Stature

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Rocky Marciano is Ring Magazine's "fighter of the month" and Jersey Joe Walcott drops to No. 3 challenger in the heavyweight division in the new rankings.

Ezzard Charles, the ex-champ from Cincinnati, who is on a red-hot win streak, gets the No. 1 place behind Marciano, followed by Roland La Starza of New York.

Although promoter Jim Norris and Al Weil, Marciano's manager, have not reached an agreement on a September fight, it is expected that the champ will defend against La Starza in New York in September.

Walcott is being pressed for third place by Bob Baker of Pittsburgh and Danny Buceroni of Philadelphia, who has outgrown the light-heavyweight class.

In the 175-pound division Harry Matthews, consistently listed as a top contender, has been moved into the heavy-weight class. As a result of his draw with Freddie Beshore, Matthews was not listed among the 10 top heavyweights.

Larry Watson of Omaha, Neb., shoved into the light-heavy ratings on his win over Danny Nardico. Mingling with a heavyweight, Watson was stopped by Charles at Milwaukee Tuesday.

With the middleweight division approaching a showdown, Kid Gavilan with Billy Graham dropping to second. As a result of the bad beat-

9 London foe, is placed third. The two boys who fight for the American version of the crown June 19 drew second and fourth spots. Carl Bobo Olson of Hawaii was No. 2 and Paddy Young of New York No. 4. Pierre Langlois of France, upset by Joe Rindone, fell a peg to fifth.

Johnny Bratton's winning streak won him the No. 1 spot behind welter champion Kid Gavilan with Billy Graham dropping to second.

As a result of the bad beating he took from Jimmy Carter in Boston, Tommy Collins was dropped out of the lightweight division to the feather class, where he is ranked third.

Carter's leading contender is George Araujo of Providence. The pair meet for the title at Madison Square Garden June 12.

As usual Jimmy Carter of New York leads the lightweights. Fourth place is awarded to Arthur King, Toronto, and fifth to Armand Savoie, Montreal.

CHAMPION COLLIES of Vantoria Kennels which will be seen in "specialties" at Friday and Saturday's dog show at the Victoria Curling Rink. Judging will be done by T. A. Quilley of Edmonton and Mrs. Elsie Murray of Vancouver. Dog obedience trails will also be featured in the shows, which start each night at 7:30.

CAMPBELL, SWEENEY BEATEN

Ward Carries U.S. Hopes in Amateur

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 28 (UP)—Defending champion Harvie Ward of Atlanta charged into the sixth round of the British Amateur Golf tournament today with a 7 and 6 victory over Alan Turner of England.

However, American hopes suffered a blow when veteran Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., was eliminated by Cecil Beamish of Ireland, 1 up in 19 holes. Former champion Robert Sweeney of Palm Beach, Fla., lost to Ray McGregor of Scotland, 1 up, despite a hole-in-one Sweeney scored on the 13th hole.

Ward had defeated ex-champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., Wednesday in a tense match, but today he had it

Saxton Still Unbeaten, Eyes Gavilan's Title

DETROIT (UP)—Johnny Saxton, winner of 39 of his 40 professional bouts—the other ended in a draw—spent the first two rounds feeling out Miceli, who is a natural left-hander but fights from a right-handed stance.

Miceli, a 24-year-old ex-GI, who learned to fight in the streets of New York's lower East Side, threw many futile left uppercuts, punches which ordinarily carry him to victory.

But Saxton outwitted Miceli by picking off those lefts with his right wrist.

Saxton termed his victory over Miceli before 4,881 fans at Olympia Wednesday night "one of the best of my career." He was in complete command after the second round and had Miceli on the ropes most of the way.

Double Title Fight

TORONTO (CP)—Promoter Frank Tunney announced Wednesday that the Armand Saviole-Arthur King fight here June 8 will be for the British Empire and Canadian lightweight titles.

King, Toronto-born brawler who has been fighting out of Philadelphia the last few years, holds the Empire title and Montreal-born Saviole is reigning Canadian champion.

Campanella Real Rough

Sinks Giants With 2 Homers, Far Ahead of Record Pace

No sling shots for Roy Campanella—when it comes to killing Giants he clubs 'em to death.

Going into Wednesday night's game at Ebbets Field New York Giants knew they had the secret formula for whipping their hated Brooklyn rivals. It was simple—stop Campanella.

The formula was right. But the Giants forgot how they were supposed to make it work.

The New Yorkers were nursing a 2-1 lead in the fourth inning. Roy promptly planted a Jim Hearn pitch in the left field seats to tie it.

With two out in the last of the ninth the Giants again were ahead, 3-2. A walk and an error gave Campy another chance at bat. A single would have tied the score. A double probably would have scored both men.

Campanella left no doubts. He blasted another one into the midst of the left field customers and the Dodgers won it, 5-3.

AHEAD OF PACE

The performance was no one-night fluke. The powerfully built Brooklyn catcher with the deceptive, waddling walk has been belting the cover off the ball all spring. The homers were his 15th and 16th, considerably ahead of the pace Babe Ruth maintained the year he hit 60.

Campanella's one-man rampage brought the Dodgers' season record against the Giants to 5-0—four victories in eight games. But it didn't gain them any ground in the hot National League race, where Milwaukee Braves' kept ahead with a 9-4 decision over Chicago Cubs.

CARDS WIN

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals also won, 6-3, over Cincinnati for their eighth success in their last 10 starts. The Cards trail the Braves by 1½ games, with the Dodgers another half-length behind. Philadelphia, sandwiched between the Dodgers and Giants in fourth place, smothered Pittsburgh, 14-2, in a twilight game but lost a night contest to the Pirates, 8-6.

In the American League, Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers battled 15 innings to a 2-2 tie and had to quit because of the league curfew. No inning can start after 12:30 a.m., local time. Even without a decision the White Sox took over second place in pursuit of New York Yankees since St. Louis Browns ended a nine-game losing streak to stop Cleveland Indians, 3-1. The loss dropped Cleveland into third.

Philadelphia Athletics edged Boston Red Sox 4-3 on Gus Zernia's eighth-inning home run and the Yankees defeated Washington, 3-1, on Eddie Lopat's three-hit pitching.

Greybeard Sain Rolls On

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Greybeard Johnny Sain, regarded as all washed up two years ago, says his arm "is stronger now than when he won 20 games for Boston Braves in 1950."

The tobacco-chewing New York Yankees' surprise top winner thus far thinks he can win 20 again if he is used often enough. He's already made seven starts and pitched 64 innings, more than any other Yankee hurler.

He also leads with five complete games and 28 strikeouts. He has won four, saved two others in relief, and lost two. In short, he has become the world champions' best pitcher—at 35.

What is Sain's secret? "There is no secret at all," Sain said Wednesday. "I'm pitching the same way now as I always have."

"I had a sore arm when the Braves let me go in August, 1951. The soreness is all gone now. My arm is stronger now than it has been since 1948 when I enjoyed the best season of my career."

Sain was somewhat of an iron man in 1948 when he pitched the Braves to their first pennant in 34 years. He was in 43 games, hurled 315 innings and won 24 while losing 15. He also beat Bob Feller and Cleveland Indians 1-0 in the world series opener.

"I guess I just pitched myself out that year," he said. "We were being pressed hard by both Brooklyn and St. Louis. I had to pitch every third day during the last six weeks of the season. I made nine starts in 29 days during one stretch, completing all of them and winning eight. It took a lot out of me."

The Yanks gambled on him for a reported $50,000 and a player August 20, 1951.

Liverpool Wins

MONTREAL (CP)—Playing fine positional soccer, the touring Liverpool team defeated Montreal All-Stars 10-0 in an exhibition match here Wednesday night.

Montreal was jittery and failed to settle down while Liverpool forwards swarmed around netminder Bill Gill. Liverpool was up 4-0 at the half.

PARIS (UP)—Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., defeated Shirley Fry of Akron, O., 8-6, 6-4, today to gain the finals of the French international tennis tournament.

Heat two: Victoria High, Oak Bay, Cowichan, Duke of Connaught. Three to qualify.

There will be a million things to see Friday and Saturday at Victoria High School's memorial track but if you want to see what will probably be the highlight of the fifth annual B.C. Inter-High Track and Field Championships, keep your eye on Harry Nelson and Dave Stafford when they meet in the final of the 100-yard dash.

That sage advice comes from Laurie Wallace, the man behind the many men who make this most colorful of school sports events possible.

Vic High's Laurie, director of the meet, prophesies that Nelson and Stafford will be pulling out the binders for the 100 supremacy because of a long-standing feud between them in this event.

Nelson, Duke of Connaught's wonderful hunk of muscle on the hoof, won the Vancouver inter-high senior aggregate championship recently, winning the 100, 220, low hurdles and broad jump.

Stafford, meteoric flash from Langley, opened eyes all over the Dominion last week when he was clocked in 10 seconds flat for the 100, equalling Percy Williams' school-boy record.

Nelson and Stafford have met 10 times in the 100 and each has won five times. This will be the rubber and more than personal rivalry may be at stake. Unofficially, both have done the 100 in less than 10 seconds and the present Canadian interscholastic record is 9.9, set by Jack Hobbs of London, Ont., in 1938. Either Nelson or Stafford could rewrite this standard.

Even the entry this year is a record—28 schools and 140 entrants, as compared with last year's total of 24 schools and 112 entrants.

And to make matters even more interesting, there is the possibility of the competitors setting themselves in favorable stead for the British Empire Games in 1954.

That is the sort of situation that exists in just one event and there are a total of 21 events, not counting heats and eliminations. School spirit runs high in this meet and records can fall like straw in a Texas twister.

Communism, Socialism Linked By Chant; Says SC the Answer

The main issue today is free enterprise and democracy versus socialism and communism—and the "old line" parties don't know how to combat socialism and communism—W. H. Chant, Victoria City candidate, told a Social Credit meeting in Sir James Douglas School Wednesday evening.

"Don't forget, Socialists are first cousins and sidekicks to communists," he said, "and up to the present time, they and the communists are winning." The answer to their defeat lies with a Social Credit government, he felt.

Mr. Chant said Victoria's main need is roads. "Eventually, under a Social Credit government, you will get four lane highways up and down Vancouver Island, with no debts attached to them," he asserted.

Percy Wright, Scored candidate on the city "C" ballot, told the audience of 14 the "old line" parties never had an answer for depression, or even for the problem of school costs.

"For 30 years, the municipalities have been asking for a better deal on education costs," he asserted. "They will get it under a Social Credit government."

EXAMINATION ASKED

He suggested those who condemn the Rolston formula examine the record and see if they have offered anything better.

"It is time for a better deal for the municipalities," Mr. Wright said.

Mrs. Lydia Arsens, "B" ballot candidate, said the Alberta government has set an example to the rest of the world of what Social Credit can do.

She referred to the "wonderful men" who have led Social Credit in Alberta, the late William Aberhart and Premier Ernest Manning. "Our premier has the same qualities," she said, "and with experience will be just as capable."

Mrs. Arsens referred to savings accomplished by the Social Credit government while in office here as one way in which the Alberta example has been followed.

Fairfield Men's Club Will Play in Oak Bay

A burlesque skit on the life of Julius Caesar will be given in Oak Bay United Church hall on Friday evening by Fairfield United Church Men's Club.

The playlet, which kept audiences at Fairfield and Cordova Bay churches in stitches earlier this month, will be augmented by vocal and instrumental numbers.

The program begins at 8 p.m.

Famous Hanging Baskets To Deck Streets Sunday

Five hundred flower baskets, 50 less than last year, will be placed on city streets at midnight Saturday, one week earlier than usual, owing to Coronation celebrations.

Reduction in the number of baskets is due to the fact that baskets involved interfered with traffic signs, Parks Administrator W. H. Warren stated.

"The mixture of flowers and plants is about the same as last year but particularly good for this time of year," he said. "A heavy wind would be the only thing to delay putting up the baskets."

Nurserymen began growing material for the baskets in January.

Inquiries on the city's baskets were received recently from the city of Brampton, Ont., and the superintendent of parks at Oakland, Calif.

Cameron Claims Secreds Now Getting Most Money

A tale of two pamphlets or "how the mighty have fallen" was told by Victoria CCF candidate Colin Cameron to an election meeting in Burnside School Wednesday night.

He could have wept for "his friends the Liberals" who were reduced to "a pathetic dodger of cheap newsprint" for election propaganda, in the current campaign.

He wondered, but not for long, at the fistful of "hand-some" literature—all "nice printing jobs"—which the Secreds brought to his door.

"What's happened to the funds the Liberals used to have to provide handsome literature?" he asked. "Why this dodger when the Social Credit party can now invest in whole handfuls of literature."

"The answer is simple—the people who provided the funds for the Liberals a year ago, like prudent investors, or shall I say like race-track investors, are now betting on another horse and putting the funds into the Social Credit party."

The Secred literature itself

he termed "arrant nonsense." "If you and I are fallible in politics, the boys who pay for this literature never make a mistake and don't pour out money to have their toes trodden on. We don't get glossy literature for our campaign. Many expensively dressed toes will be trodden on by the CCF."

Sweden's prehistoric period, measured by naturalists and archaeologists, covers about 10,000 years up to 1000 AD.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Author: Queen to Her Majesty
© 1953 BY MARION CRAWFORD
DISTRIBUTED BY B&N SERVICES

The intimate biography of Queen Elizabeth, written by her good friend and former governess Marion Crawford, appears exclusively in the Victoria Daily Times in 24 chapters. Out of the 17 years of close association with the royal family "Crawford" has previously published "The Little Princess" and "Mother and Queen: The Story of Queen Mary."

XXI.

Always the spotlight of public interest follows Queen Elizabeth, exploring her most private and personal moments in a way which few of her subjects would stand.

It is right, with the Constitution formed as it is, that Royal Grants should be discussed by the Parliament which passes them. But it cannot be pleasant to have your income, needs, and expenses attacked by the House of Commons and the result of their debate published all over the world.

I well remember the embarrassed air which hung over the allowances paid yearly to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were being debated. From the age of 11 the Princess received a yearly income of £6,000—granted her out of the King's Civil List of £410,000.

At 21 this income was raised to £15,000 annually, and at the time of her marriage to £30,000 with extra grants for the upkeep of Clarence House.

To those who think these figures large I would point out that inflated expenses Royalty have to furnish her house literally "fit for a king" to live in.

It would not have been in the country's interests for the Heiress Presumptive to live in a suburban bungalow.

Just as, when she went abroad, the Princess was our No. 1 Ambassador, so, at home, hers was the home which typified the country.

major outlay of entertaining foreign dignitaries who visit the country and cannot be entertained by a sandwich and a cup of tea. They must be met with the pomp and ceremony suitable to their rank.

Receptions and garden parties sometimes cost the King as much as £3,000 each. All this had to come out of his grant. And, similarly, the Princess' smaller-scale entertaining came out of hers.

This they accepted as part of their duty. But it could not be pleasant for them to have to face, on the top of that burden, criticism of the money they are allowed, so little of which remains for their private needs.

Publicity Marred Joys of Courtship

No girl-in-love and yet not publicly joined by engagement to the man she loves welcomes prying into her private feelings.

Yet that is what Princess Elizabeth had to put up with all through that long, trying time before she and Prince Philip could face the world as future man and wife.

Although that sense of duty I have stressed so often in these pages is one which made her destiny of the highest importance in the Queen's life, do not think that public curiosity did not cost her dear.

I saw her shaken by the sometimes coarse but no doubt kindly meant interest in her affairs taken by some of the public she saw on her day's duty.

I felt the strain she was under, watched the way her eyes would sometimes stray to Prince Philip, knowing that in her heart she must be saying "Why can't I marry the man I love? Why must there be this pitiless delay?"

Victorians on Athabaskan in Hot Action Aiding Korean Guerrillas

ABOARD DESTROYER ATHABASKAN (CP).—This Canadian destroyer recently went to the aid of South Korean guerrillas and got her first blast of enemy fire in this tour of Korean operations. But the South Korean patrol was saved and the Canadians suffered no casualties.

The ship is commanded by Capt. J. C. Reed of Victoria.

The South Koreans had raided the mainland near Chodo Island, captured two prisoners and were withdrawing with the Reds close behind, and needed help to get free.

The navigator, Lieut. James Clapton of Victoria, piloted the ship by radar through treacherous rocks and shoals. As the beach came in range the Athabaskan opened fire to suppress enemy mortars and troops.

After 40 rounds of four-inch shells, the Communists withdrew to what seemed to be a secure position behind a hill.

The ship then silenced two gun emplacements.

Meanwhile, the destroyer called the United States aircraft carrier Bataan, and four aircraft were directed to the battle.

The Athabaskan directed air attacks which blasted the enemy from the hillside shelter. Other planes remained overhead while the Athabaskan covered the withdrawal of the guerrillas.

As the destroyer turned seaward, a concealed enemy shore battery opened fire, but the range was too great.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

You may criticize The Candidate, but you must admit he is a promising candidate. (For the benefit of those who came in late, The Candidate is the dog Punch, who is the leader of the Punch for Premier Party).

The latest promise he has come up with is, he promises (if elected) he will institute a Five-Day Week-end.

He decided on this promise during the course of a fire-side chat with me. (The way we have fireside chats, I keep the fire going, and he lies on his side).

"Punch," I said to The Candidate, "it is time you told the electorate your views on Labor."

The Candidate yawned and stretched. Labor, said The Candidate, Labor is the thing I am most not in favor of as if.

"But you have to be in favor of Labor," I protested. I am not in favor of Labor, said The Candidate. I do not believe in laboring.

"Oh," I said, "You are mixed up. I mean, you have to be in favor of the Laboring Man."

That is different, said The Candidate. I am indeed in favor of the Laboring Man. Would you be laboring too much, asked The Candidate, if you threw another log on the fire?

"Let us be constructive," I said. "Every Laboring Man has a vote. What are you going to do to attract the Labor vote?"

Why, that is simple, The Candidate said. I am just going to arrange things so the Laboring Man will work like a dog.

Working like a dog, said The Candidate, curling into a more comfortable position on the rug, is the easiest kind of working I know.

"I see what you mean," I said, enviously. "But how are you going to catch the Labor vote?"

I will do a little promising, said The Candidate. I will promise the Five-Day Week-end, which will bring new prosperity to this Great Country of Ours.

You are about to ask me, The Candidate continued, how this will work. Well, you give everybody a five-day holiday every week, so what happens? Everybody has five days of leisure. Everybody looks for ways to relax. Everybody plays tennis, or golf, or baseball, or goes swimming, or hooks a rug.

This means that millions of people will be given employment, said The Candidate. Imagine, he demanded, the number of people needed to make all the extra tennis rackets and golf clubs and swimming trunks and wool for rug-hooking.

Why, said The Candidate, my Five-Day Week-end would step up the industrial productivity of this country to the point where everyone would have to work an eight-day week.

"Are you sure this plan is feasible?" I asked, doubtfully. The Candidate glanced at me. In any project of this magnitude, he said, there would be a few details to work out after I am elected.

However, he said, if elected, I promise a Five-Day Week-end in every man, woman and child.

"How about dogs?" I asked.

Dogs, said The Candidate, will continue to have a seven-day week-end.

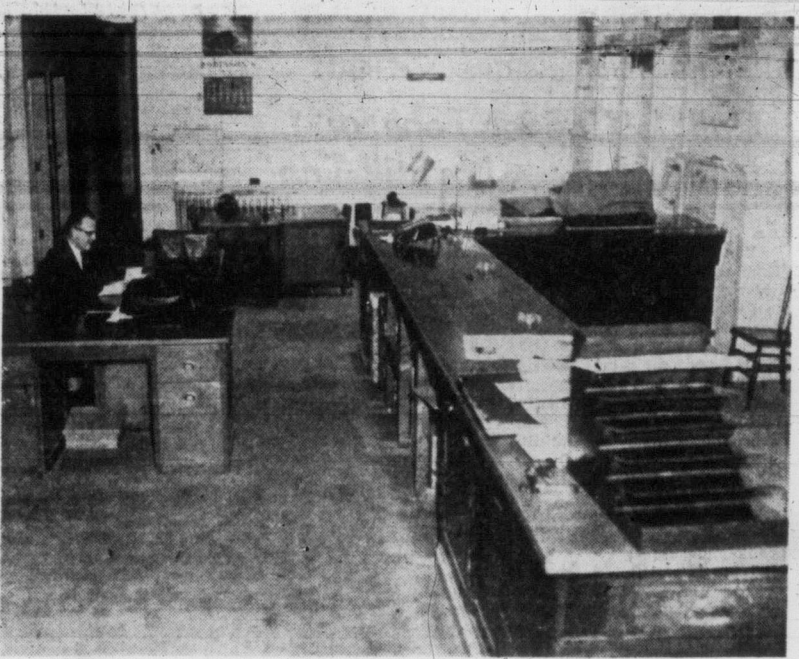

And he closed his eyes as he closed the subject.

Socred Denies Rivalry for Leader's Job

Bennett 'Almost Unanimous Choice'

Victoria Socred Ald. Don Smith today denied a recent statement from Liberal Leader Arthur Laing that Public Works Minister P. A. Gagliardi only missed getting the Socred party leadership by two votes.

The alderman said Premier Bennett was an "almost unanimous" choice at a Vancouver meeting of MLA's and defeated candidates last year.

He said many names were submitted, but Mr. Bennett was elected on the first ballot.

"I was at the meeting, and I can say Premier Bennett was a first-choice leader, not a fifth-choice like Mr. Laing."

"To say Mr. Gagliardi was only two ballots short of taking the leadership is an absolute lie but is typical of Mr. Laing's tactics in this campaign," said Ald. Smith.

"To say Mr. Gagliardi was only two ballots short of taking the leadership is an absolute lie but is typical of Mr. Laing's tactics in this campaign," said Ald. Smith.

The alderman said Premier Bennett was an "almost unanimous" choice at a Vancouver meeting of MLA's and defeated candidates last year.

He said many names were submitted, but Mr. Bennett was elected on the first ballot.

"I was at the meeting, and I can say Premier Bennett was a first-choice leader, not a fifth-choice like Mr. Laing."

LIBERAL-TURNED-SOCRED BACK IN FORMER FOLD

Victoria real estate salesman Clyde Elford, a former Liberal who switched to Social Credit about a year ago, has returned to the Liberal fold.

"The Social Credit government's ill-considered legislation made me realize I couldn't stick with Premier Bennett's party," Mr. Elford said today.

Mr. Elford, a former secretary of the Victoria Young Liberals, is now actively supporting Liberal candidates in Greater Victoria.

"As a former member of the Liberal Party, I felt it had deviated from its principles. Therefore, I joined Social Credit, not for any personal gain, but one who was interested in good government."

"The lack of political experience and ill-considered legislation has convinced me that this was not the party wanted by the majority of people."

Mr. Elford said he's now satisfied the revitalized Liberal Party and its progressive policy is best for B.C.

He said he's 100 per cent behind new Liberal Leader Arthur Laing.

Mass Election Rally Set at Athletic Park

PARK SERVICE

CHURCHES TO MARK CORONATION

A civic religious service in observance of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II will be held in the Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

The service has been arranged by the Victoria Ministerial Association with the co-operation of the Canadian Legion.

Rev. T. H. McAllister, association president, will conduct the service and Dean P. R. Beattie of Christ Church Cathedral will give an address on the Coronation.

Representatives of the provincial government, city and municipalities will attend.

The Canadian Legion will parade to the park and the band of HMCS Naden will play at the shell. Rev. S. V. H. Redman, secretary of the Ministerial Association, is in charge of arrangements.

A special Coronation service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday morning at 11 to which various government and civic dignitaries have been invited.

A community service to mark the Coronation, sponsored by United, Presbyterian and Anglican Churches of Victoria West, will be held in the Church of St. Saviour, Sunday night at 7:30.

Rev. Douglas Kendall will be assisted by Rev. James Hyde. Mr. Redman will give the address. A combined choir of the churches will be in attendance.

Political Rivals in City to Appear On Same Platform at Meeting

What might be the biggest and stormiest pre-election meeting here in the campaign for political supremacy June 9 was announced today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

An open-air forum at which all Victoria candidates but one will speak, has been arranged for Thursday, June 4, at 7:30 p.m., at Royal Athletic Park.

THE CORONATION STORY

Traffic Jams Common as Londoners Watch Events

By RETA MYERS

LONDON—Coronation fever has taken London! Symptoms are the desire to stay up all night to obtain vantage points to watch anything that may have the least bearing on the Coronation, and the urge of those arranging all these things to outdo anything that has been done before. The outcome is a rash of traffic that clogs London's arteries, making transportation a menace to everyone... only a Londoner could come through this good-naturedly.

You are apt to see anything these days. The Queen is the busiest person in town, while the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret fill in the spaces so that if you are insistent and tireless you see some member of the Royal Family every day.

And Prince Charles, bless his heart, is to be seen on the balcony of Buckingham Palace with his nanny, saluting his beloved soldiers as they go through the stately changing of the guard. If your eyes are open you can hardly miss some sort of rehearsal. Jet fighters rehearsing for the fly past—they flew in formations of 18 over Westminster Abbey and across Piccadilly Circus while the Queen was rehearsing her part of the Coronation ceremony in the abbey.

The Queen Mother went to an afternoon service in St. Paul's the other day and that evening attended one of the coming out dances, repeating her program of the night before when all members of the family went to a dance at Hutchinson House. Rumor has it that Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth will attend the Coronation dance given by officers of the Household Brigade at Hampton Court on May 29. His Honor Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Wallace will be among guests.

If this isn't enough to keep up with there are rehearsals of Trooping of the Color by troops taking part on this Queen's birthday event of June 11. They must be letter perfect. And London crowds, who have a sixth sense when things are happening, crowd the Horse Guards Parade to see the procession.

This morning while watching part of this rehearsal I asked one of the police inspectors what did he think of the traffic problems of June 2?

"We'll manage. We have lots of men and they know their jobs," he said.

Hears Popular Song Come to Life

Today I heard a nightingale sing in Berkeley Square, as it will every day for at least the next two weeks. Where the tall grasses are ringed with garlands of artificial roses, a huge golden cage has been built to accommodate this legendary songster. He is a tame pet, raised by his owner from a fledgling, and even the half-hearted queries of the SPCA have failed to interfere with the bringing to life of the famous song.

To be sure that he sings, a record of the nightingale's song is broadcast from a nearby rose-decked pavilion from 3-12 p.m. The little singer has obliged by joining in the chorus on several occasions and today greeted the sun at 7 a.m. with a burst of song, according to the Berkeley Square gardener.

I've talked to one of the men who helped decorate Westminster Abbey... "All blue and gold it is, miss, with blue brocade hanging all along the sides and golden curtains draped back. A rare sight I'd say. They're doing it up good this time."

That is a mild statement with 7,000 specially grown geraniums banked on the stands outside the palace and profusion of flowers around the abbey.

Millionaires' Row will be on the Thames between Deptford and Westminster, where 60 private yachts and cruisers will be anchored and serve as hotels for their owners. (Burl Ives, the troubadour, found there was no room for his yacht when he arrived this week.)

The visitor does not see the real London today, for the main arteries are covered with a rash of stands that obscure the landmarks. But he is seeing the London he will never see again; for, from any point, the gold, blue, red... Tudor roses and fluttering standards, gold crowns and insignia, and wonderful flood-lighting change this old grey city into a pageant of color.

Decorations are pretty well up, and even the blasé Londoner is beginning to admit that after all it's all going to be pretty good.

Auxiliary Hosts Annual Tea

Mrs. John Clay, vice-president, Ladies' Auxiliary, Victoria Branch, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, with Mrs. Elizabeth Watling, president of the White Cane Club, received guests at the annual tea sponsored by the auxiliary for blind citizens of Victoria and their friends.

The affair, held Wednesday afternoon at CNIB headquarters, was the first tea in the auditorium and also marked seventh anniversary of the founding of the White Cane Club.

Coronation theme was used in decorations arranged by Mrs. Charles Heisterman, assisted by Mrs. C. C. Wyatt, Miss Laura Mabray and Mrs. W. Stansbury. Flag-decked pictures of Queen Elizabeth were on the walls, and on the small tea tables were bouquets of early-summer flowers and miniature flags.

A program included recitations by Mrs. Gwen Downes. During the afternoon an anniversary cake was cut by C. S. Hamilton, assisted by Mrs. B. Thorpe-Double, a charter member of the auxiliary.

Members of the auxiliary assisted in serving tea and in transporting blind members to and from the tea.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Tea and Sale—St. John's parish hall was the scene of a successful Coronation tea and sale of home cooking held by Nursing Sisters' Branch, Canadian Legion. Tea conveners were Mesdames Don Smyth, D. Smart and N. Pollard. Mrs. R. Newstead, Mrs. H. Ashmore and Misses J. Cicieri and G. Graham assisted. Homecooking was in charge of Mrs. R. Comers, Mrs. R. Crowe and Miss O. Wilson; tickets, Mrs. W. Davenport; floral arrangements, Mrs. C. H. Rennie and publicity, Mrs. T. H. Smith. Mrs. M. O'Leary and Miss M. Ogilvie managed the raffle and Mrs. R. Hogarth received guests.

New Officers—At annual meeting of Aged and Infirm Women's Home, Mrs. F. E. Scarth was re-elected president. Other officers present were: honorary president, Mrs. A. D. Whittier; first vice, Mrs. E. Cridge; second vice, Mrs. A. S. Minnion. Members present were Mesdames D. C. Sabiston, F. G. Ellis, D. A. Lister, G. Nicholls, N. Phillips and N. Warren. New secretary, Mrs. N. Fox, stated 124 ladies were cared for and 32 applications have been received and added to waiting list. Committee for the month is Mrs. Minnion, convener, Mrs. Warren and Mrs. Lister.

Novel Tea—A novel Bundle Tea was held recently by Victoria Chapter 25, Women of the Moose Academy of Friendship at home of Mrs. C. Giles, 590 Boleskine Road. Convener was Mrs. M. Iliott. Academy's colors were carried out in arrangements of blue iris and yellow tulips, and a blue banner with Friendship inscribed in yellow. Bundles were placed in a blue knapsack and tied to a yellow pole. These were later distributed to guests by means of comic character names. Bingo was played during evening, prizes being donated by Mrs. M. Morry and Mrs. L. Walsh. Buffet supper was served by hostess and chairman.

Quilts for Korea—At recent meeting of Metropolitan United Society, Mrs. Gladys W. Beall reported that five quilts have been completed by the Korean relief sewing group. She gave a brief talk on collection and reported that Mrs. E. R. Bewell was representative to the Dominion Board meeting in Toronto. Mrs. J. Jones led the devotional. Mrs. H. O. English outlined work of the church in Africa and the ordination of a pastor. Other speakers were Miss E. Wheatley and Mrs. W. H. Muncey. Mrs. H. D. D. Paul was soloist.

Installation—Mrs. H. Cruickshank acted as installing officer at a recent meeting of Native Daughters of B.C., Post No. 3. Deputies were Mrs. R. Nickerson and Mrs. D. Currie. Mrs. B. Creech, newly elected chief factor, received a bouquet and Mrs. I. Brown, retiring chief factor, a gift of china on behalf of members. A report was presented by Mrs. Creech on Local Council of Women meeting. Members were invited to attend a social evening by Miss Ettie Neelands, at her home, 80 High Street, June 5.

Coronation Theme—Flags, streamers and crowns repeated the red, white and blue of iris, peonies, snowballs and roses at a Coronation tea held by Centennial United Church Women's Auxiliary in the church hall. Mrs. W. McCaw, president, gave a brief opening address, and Mrs. Douglas B. Carr and Mrs. McCaw welcomed guests. Stalls included aprons and homecooking and there were prizes for best homecooking. Mrs. J. McKenzie and D. Harvey, cards were in charge of Mesdames E. M. Murray and N. H. homecooking. Mesdames B. Gordon and R. Couch, and aprons, Mrs. F. Burden. Serving tea were Mesdames J. L. Ogden, C. Gibson, W. Burns, J. Ellis, J. McAuley, M. Bullivant and N. Smirl. Mesdames W. Saunders, F. Godsalve, C. C. Howard, J. Gray, M. McLeod and A. E. Bunting assisted in kitchen. Ticket sale was in charge of Mrs. D. E. Bennett and over $81 was realized.

Plan Fete—At recent meeting of Craigflower Women's Institute, plans were made for a garden party, June 10, at home of past president, Mrs. D. Hawthorne, 28 Stewart Avenue. Mrs. Rose Rogers, San Diego, Calif., will open the affair. Mrs. M. Rant reported the institute had adopted a patient in Veterans' Hospital. Sum of $23 was realized at spring tea it was reported by Mrs. R. Welham.

Garden Tea—At meeting of meeting of Women's Association, Ganges-United Church, plans were made to sponsor a garden tea and sale of work. By invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foster, affair will be held at Vesuvius Bay home of G. Everell. Mesdames C. Zenkie, J. D. Reid and Stanley Wagg will assist with tea on Coronation day. Treasurer's report showed a balance of $113.40.

Annual Picnic—Mrs. W. Norton, vice-president, presided at meeting of Sunshine Guild, Salt Spring Island, when arrangements were made for annual picnic, June 16, at home of president, Mrs. F. H. Newham. Long Harbor, where a shower will be held to provide materials for the fall sale. Treasurer's report showed balance of $137.24 and $10 was donated to the fire brigade. Tea was served by Mesdames George Lowe and W. Norton.

Successful Tea—At meeting of Navy League Chapter, IODE, Mrs. T. Watt reported $63.45 was realized at the Coronation tea. Donations were made to the National Film Fund, Mary Croft Memorial, work in India and Peace Garden. Chapter convened a superfluity stall at the Sea Cadets' Carnival.

To Marry in St. Mark's Church

The engagement was announced recently of Kathleen Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Collins, 3466 Bethune Avenue, to William Sloan Boughey, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Richards, 414 Dundas Street. The wedding will take place at St. Mark's Anglican Church on June 27, at 7.30 p.m., with Canon Robert Willis officiating. Miss Collins has chosen Miss Beverly Hardy as maid of honor, Mrs. J. Boughey as bride's matron and Miss Christine Lonsbury as flower girl. Mr. J. Boughey will be best man.

BPW Club June Musicale

The summer musicale, sponsored annually by Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, will be held again this year at Oak Bay Beach Hotel, June 5, at 8.30. Mrs. J. Ingram Smith is program chairman and has obtained some outstanding musical talent, consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, duets, trios and ensembles. Official hostess will be Miss Frances Jordan, who will be assisted by Mrs. Bessie Smith, club president, and Miss Mabel Cameron, chairman of Bay Wigley Scholarship fund, for which the musicale is being held.

But poor old Roe was at the foot of the poll on the first count.

So your ballot was transferred to G. Stiles' count, he being your No. 2 man.

Then, darn it, G. Stiles was at the bottom on the second count. But your ballot is still alive. Roe has lost and G. Stiles has lost, but your vote for Doe is counted in the final tally and, oh boy! you beat dirty old stinker J. Stiles after all.

In the counting of votes, each time a transfer is made, there are a certain number of ballots which become completely dead — exhausted is the official term — and have no further part in the election. These are the ballots on which people "plumped" for losing candidates by marking for only one or two candidates, not using the alternative vote to the fullest extent.

CONTEST SHRINKS

The requirement to get elected is one more vote than 50 per cent of the valid existing votes. Thus, as counting goes on, the total of votes necessary for election gets smaller because of these dead votes, which have to be eliminated to avoid a possible deadlock.

It is as if, at a leadership convention, several delegates decided after the first ballot they had no further interest and went out, and the rest of the delegates take any further part in choosing the leader.

Tomorrow: Is there an advantage in plumping?

Students of German Class Give Variety Performance

A group of students of the German language, who have been studying this winter in private night classes under the guidance of Miss Nora Haimberger, well-known concert pianist and teacher of this city, presented a unique and versatile program Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eastick, Oak Bay Avenue.

The program consisted of folksongs and lieder, monologues and dialogues, a dance and a one-act play, translated from English by Miss Haimberger.

J. H. McClintock gave a monologue from "Hamlet" in an 18th century translation by famous German Shakespearean experts, Schlegel and Tieck. Mr. McClintock also appeared with Alan Cameron in a dialogue and sang a folksong. Goethe's poem "The Erlking" was recited by G. M. Kerry and songs were sung by Margaret Eastick, Robin Maunsell and Del Buckett. A dance from Humperdinck's opera "Hansel and Gretel" was given by the husband and wife team of Gloria and Alan Cameron.

A novel manner of presentation had been devised by Miss Haimberger, who introduced each artist by spotlighting them in various parts of the rooms.

Engineer Killed When CNR Trains Collide in Quebec

DANBY, Que. (CP)—A train engineer was killed and one passenger injured when two slowly-moving Canadian National Railways passenger trains collided here Wednesday night.

Steve Bazuk, 45, of Verdun, Que., was killed. An unidentified woman passenger was taken to hospital at nearby Windsor Mills.

CNR officials said the undercarriage of one train was derailed and the entire locomotive of the other was knocked from the tracks.

One train was en route to Island Pond from Montreal, while the other was coming to Montreal from Sherbrooke.

They Face the Roman Empire

In a comedy of manners played against the good-natured rivalry of ancient Rome, a royal captain (Victor Mature), Lavinia, a lovely captive (Jean Simmons) and Androcles, a mild, henpecked tailor (Alan Young, right) are flung together by circumstances. Gabriel Pascal's "Androcles and the Lion" stars them with Maurice Evans and Robert Newton. The RKO Radio release is a screen version of Bernard Shaw's famed comedy drama, now showing at the Royal Theatre.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

(A) "ANDROCLES AND THE LION" (Royal): It is purely an academic question as to how great George Bernard Shaw was. But it is enough to agree that he was among the great playwrights of our times. Personally I revere the man. Adaptations of two of his plays for the screen, notably "Pygmalion" and "Major Barbara" remain in my memory as being among the finest shows I have ever seen.

I think it's only fair to explain to you how I feel so you will understand the high rating I have given "Androcles and the Lion."

It is equally necessary for you to understand that you should enjoy Shaw, his brilliant wit, and, at times, his cynicism, if you are to enjoy this picture about early Christians in the days of the Roman empire.

As Androcles, the brave, frightened, animal-loving Christian, Alan Young carries the day. In turn timid, yet brave in his convictions, Young plays his role to the full as he is thrown to the lions. (Sorry, I mean lion.)

Excellent, also, is Jean Simmons as a Caesar's daughter, a Christian girl who is willing to be a martyr for her belief. A top-notch performance is turned in by able thespian Maurice Evans as a Caesar so that surely even the noblest of them all would have envied him for his gleeful callousness and aloof wit.

Robert Newton, who sometimes—in other pictures—becomes too carried away by his roles to be good, is in fine form as the strong-man, short-tempered Christian who has just so many cheeks to turn when it comes time to be smitten down by the gladiators.

About Victor Mature, the Roman captain, I dunno. I prefer him as a football coach. Actually "Androcles and the Lion" is a gentle combination of serious drama, history and comedy, the comedy, at times, actually bordering upon the slapstick.

In recapitulation, if you admire Shaw, you'll like this version of "Androcles and the Lion."

PRESIDENT STILL UNNAMED

Music Festival Group Seeks Volunteers

Although the Greater Victoria Musical Festival is momentarily without a president, optimism, well founded in reports of officers and committee heads was the keynote of the annual meeting held Wednesday night at First United Church.

J. F. K. English, in his address as retiring president, stressed the need for more volunteers to assist with the many details of preparation requiring attention, not merely at festival time, but throughout the year. This had been the most successful festival in the four-year-old history of the organization, he commented, with most aspects—entries, door sales and program sales—taking a distinct step upward.

Financially, the festival association is on a sound footing with a sizeable surplus. Treasurer's report, presented by Peter Copeland, while unavoidably incomplete, showed cash receipts of $3,800 with approximately $250 still to come in. Disbursements in full were $3,789.96, of which $515 was given in bursaries to outstanding students. This amount was exclusive of bursaries donated by outside organizations. Adjudicators' fees and expenses amounted $1,199.45.

Analysis of the work of their departments was presented by Mary Hunter for secretariat; Mrs. Roberto Wood, syllabus; Mrs. William Ellis, staff; Dr. H. R. Anderson, publicity; Harry Brown, awards and transportation.

UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Several suggestions were made and will be dealt with by the incoming executive. Mrs. Frank White, chairman of nominations committee, presented a slate of officers and directors, and with two nominations from the floor, all were elected unanimously. Mrs. White explained that possible candidates for the president's office were still to be heard from and a motion to leave this appointment to the new executive was adopted.

Executive and directors for 1953-54 are as follows: Mrs. William Ellis, first vice-president; Dr. Harry Hickman, second; Mrs. Mary Hunter, recording secretary; Miss Winona Bethune, corresponding; Peter Copeland, treasurer; Miss Una Calvert and Miss Margery Vaughan, syllabus; Dr. Anderson, W. H. Wilson, Ernest MacLennan, Mr. Bigsby and Mr. Muncy, directors.

was the party's "fifth choice" for leadership, Ald. Don Smith said at St. Aidan's Hall meeting Wednesday night.

"If word gets out of arrangements made to get him, there'll never be another Liberal elected in B.C.," claimed Mr. Smith, an ex-Liberal.

He labelled Mr. Laing a "product of the Vancouver machine."

Mr. Smith contended the new leader is conducting the worst type of campaign B.C. has ever seen.

"Byron Johnson at least was a gentleman—a dictator at heart—or should I say an aggressive businessman," said Mr. Smith.

The speaker, following up his charge that Mr. Laing is a machine politician, quoted Times editor Bruce Hutchison's book, "The Fraser," which he said, related in part, "Vancouver is ruled by the most garish tycoons in Canada."

Prince Again Takes 'Copter From Palace Grounds to Work

LONDON (AP)—The Duke of Edinburgh took off in a helicopter from Buckingham Palace lawn again Wednesday to review colonial troops at Woolwich. He made his first hop from the royal grass Tuesday on a similar mission.

A palace spokesman said the Duke had the Queen's approval although some of the more staid officials have frowned at his air gallivanting.

Danger?

A palace official explained "it is felt that the Duke is taking no greater risk than traveling by road."

The Duke himself has won his wings. He's traveling about, however, in a helicopter equipped with dual controls piloted by Royal Naval Air Cmdr. H. R. Spedding.

Designed to treat cancerous tumors, a betatron with a power of 31,000,000 volts has been installed at Oslo, Norway.

Barbara Brent's BUYS AND WHYS

MONTREAL, May 28th—Not even that flatterer new lipstick colour can make you look your best if a painful corn has you tense and frowning. So take my advice—try these BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters with Phenylum. That's the new medication that gets under your corn and helps push it out from underneath... the first really new medication for corns and calluses in over seventy years!

In actual tests, it went to work 33% faster, worked 35% more surely than any other leading remedy. Truly, once you've used new Blue-Jays, you'll never go back to old-style remedies. Your favourite drug counters have new Blue-Jays with Phenylum. Get some today.

When The Young Man In The High-Chair gets hungry, don't keep him waiting! You can whip up a serving of FRENCH'S INSTANT POTATO in just one minute... no need to cook his potatoes away ahead of the rest of his food. And, m-m-m-m!—babies love these creamy-smooth mashed potatoes. Yes, French's Instant Potato is delicious—nutritious—economical (no waste!)... and so easy to prepare. There's no washing—no peeling—no cooking—no mashing. Just follow the directions on the package. French's Instant Potato is so convenient for your toddler's daily serving of mashed potatoes, keep a package always handy on the shelf—always ready to use.

How Do You Like Your Coffee? Strong?—medium?—... but definitely good! And that's just what NEW INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN is! No matter how you make it, it has real coffee flavour. You see, New Instant Chase & Sanborn is 100% real coffee. It's made by a brand new "Natural Flavour" process that keeps the flavour and aroma of freshly ground coffee. Tasting is believing and I suggest that you do just that. You'll love this new Chase & Sanborn "Instant". And you'll love its "instant" convenience. New Instant Chase & Sanborn Coffee dissolves—like magic!—in hot or cold water. And it's so economical. Saves me up to 40¢ compared with regular coffee!

Don't Miss It! Such grand values at HEINZ BIG VALUE FAIR! And you haven't far to go to see it. It's in full swing right now at your favourite grocer's. So hurry down with the rest of the folks and make the most of your grocer's treasure-laden shelves. Stock up with enough of the famous 57-variety to enjoy a long adventure in good eating. Get a good supply of Heinz Tomato Juice and Heinz Condensed Soups. And remember your family's favourite Heinz Oven-Baked Beans and Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and Macaroni. By all means, stock up on Heinz Tomato Ketchup, Chili Sauce and Pickles. And for baby, you'll want a good supply of Heinz Pure Cooked Cereals, Strained Foods or Junior Foods.

Want A Free Vacation? Enter This $10,000 Happy Holiday Contest! And win cash prizes up to $500 plus World-Famous McBride "Comet" Aeroplanes and Northern Electric "Sportstamen" AC-DC Portable Radios EVERY WEEK. Yes, you can enter Blue Bonnet Sue's All-Canadian Contest this week! Very week — as often as you like until the end of the contest on July 14th. Why not get started today? You'll find entry forms and simple rules at your grocer's and in packages of Blue Bonnet Margarine. Plan to have a wonderful holiday! Don't miss this huge All-Canadian Contest with 23 prizes awarded to 23 different winners every week!

Spring Speaks Of Outdoor Living... in the park, on picnics, at holiday resorts — and all that outdoor living speaks of valuables left unguarded around the house — and that situation whispers of burglars and shouts a reminder to rent a Safety Deposit Box at the BANK OF MONTREAL! All of which leaves me a bit out of breath but with the satisfaction of having delivered some good advice! I speak from experience, too — having had my own home broken into, one unhappy springtime. That's when I resolved never to leave my precious possessions at the mercy of burglars again! And rather than face the risks of carrying valuables with me on my travels, I put them in — B of M Safety Deposit Box... and left my worries in there with them. So why not take a tip that can save you much grief? Rent yourself a B of M Safety Deposit Box at your neighborhood branch tomorrow. Costs less than two cents a day!

ANYBODY WANNA SING?

25 Per Cent of Quartet Seeks Fellow Songsters

By DAVE STOCK

The only trouble with barbershop quartet singing is that once you start you don't want to stop.

And that's why Andy Cleven of 599 St. Patrick Street is earnestly searching for some genial males in Victoria who would be interested in pooling their vocal talents to produce some real, old-fashioned harmony.

Andy is in effect, an ambassador at large (take a breath) the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.

Andy became interested in the SPEBSQSA in 1949, and in 1950 helped organize a branch of the society in Vancouver.

Now his work has brought him to Victoria, and he's homesick for harmony and thinks it's time he did something about it.

If he can get a sufficient number of men interested, he'll get an SPEBSQSA flag flying here.

The way is open for any male, who is free, adult, congenial and of good repute. Prospective members don't even have to sing.

The society welcomes those who sing; those who can't but want to learn, and those who just aren't cut out for singing but like to listen.

The man who actually started SPEBSQSA is Owen C. Cash, a lawyer in Tulsa, Oklahoma. He gathered a few of his friends together one night in 1938 for some serious woodshedding on old, familiar tunes.

The originals got so much

fun out of it they stayed together and it wasn't long before other groups in nearby centres were doing the same thing.

Today, there are 650 chapters of the "Society For," and membership is close to 30,000. Anyone interested in the idea of forming a quartet is asked to phone G 1264. If a bass answers, that's bully.

English Firm Again Low on Big U.S. Job

SEATTLE (AP)—A British firm has submitted the low bid for the second time for 10 big power transformers for the United States government's Joseph Dam project on the Columbia river.

English Electrical Export and Trading Co., Ltd., of London, Wednesday submitted a $442,751 lower bid than the lowest-bidding American firm. The efficiency rating listed for the British product, however, was slightly below that of the lowest American bidder.

Rejection of original bids by the department of army, and a call for rebidding, brought criticism in Britain's House of Commons. The new bid award will be made after study in Washington.

The English firm cut $70,563 from its earlier bid while the lowest-bidding American firm, Maloney Electric Co., was $270 higher than originally.

NEWS BRIEFS

Chief of Police John Blackstock told the city police commission Wednesday "at least 200 hours of my men's time are used up each month in checking on and looking after premises in the downtown area that are left without locked doors and windows."

An application to quash a local improvement by-law for deepening of a ditch on Normandy Road, was refused in a judgment handed down Wednesday by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court.

The application was taken by N. and N. W. Spong, P. M. McLaughlin, N. Turner and M. F. Olsen against the Municipality of Saanich. They claimed the costs for deepening the ditch should not have been assessed against them as they did not benefit from the project.

Esquimalt Council wrote the city today asking if it would be prepared to provide Esquimalt with pound service and on what terms.

City Firemen Volunteer to Aid Palsy Group

City firemen have come to the aid of Lower Vancouver Island Cerebral Palsy Association by undertaking to provide transportation for ten children in this area who require treatment at Royal Jubilee Hospital three times a week.

The firemen have undertaken to provide the service through their union, Local 730 of the International Association of Fire Fighters.

Joe Sutherland, secretary of a special union committee handling the project, revealed today

National Motors Ltd. had agreed to supply a car for the shuttle service, and that drivers would be provided each day by off-duty members of the department.

The children are given physiotherapy and speech therapy at the clinic, which was established by the Cerebral Palsy Association last February.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society here is seeking volunteer drivers to take their people to and from St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

Officials of that society have stated they would be grateful if some organization would do for them what the firemen are doing for the cerebral palsy group.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By RAY SIDAWAY

A reporter's new lead in a baffling murder case led to the solution of the crime. John M. McGuire, formerly of the Valley Times in North Hollywood, will be the subject of tonight's "Big Story" broadcast which dramatizes his exploits. The program will be heard on KOMO at 8.

A Van Nuys (Calif.) landscape gardener had been shot through the head as he slept. Neighbors unwittingly provided conflicting evidence which indicated no motive for the crime. But McGuire found an important clue the official investigators had overlooked, and so helped solve the case.

Margaret Anderson (Dorothy Lovett) is thrilled at being selected as the model mother of the year, but sees the honor slipping away as her home is mistakenly revealed as a "den of iniquity" on tonight's edition of "Father Knows Best," heard on KOMO at 10.

When a magazine editor comes to the Anderson home to do an article for her publication, Betty has to leave for the pool hall; Bud is getting the smoking cure, and little Kathy is in the process of "borrowing" all the pipes in the neighborhood. Fortunately there is a logical explanation to all this and Margaret is finally complimented on being the mother of the year.

TONIGHT'S HIGHLIGHTS: Music-Dalton Baker directs the choir in hymns on "Eventide" on CBU at 7:30. Sports-Eric Whitehead brings you a "British Empire Games Report" on CBU at 6:15. Talks-A member of the Social Credit party will speak on "B.C. Election Talk" on CBU at 10:15.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
By EDWIN JORDAN, MD

Outlook Is Fairly Bright for Anxiety Neurosis Patients

Some time ago T. W. asked for a discussion of "automatic unbalance." He wrote, "This is what I have been told I have after having been chronically ill for 25 years. I am 40 now. "My symptoms are numerous: extreme thinness and inability to gain weight, frequent and violent digestive upsets with vomiting, excessive sweating during warm weather and coldness and trembling during cold weather, lack of body equilibrium, asthma, pronounced neurotic tendencies and nervousness."

This description fits a common disorder which is also sometimes called neurocirculatory asthenia, anxiety neurosis, effort syndrome, neurasthenia and other labels. It is thought to occur to a greater or lesser degree in about one person out of 20. Although it possesses all these rather alarming names, it is probably not correct to speak of it as a disease.

In addition to the uncomfortable symptoms mentioned by Mr. W., persons who fall in this category also frequently complain of one or more of the following symptoms: pounding of the heart, easy tiredness, breathlessness, chest pains, sighing, dizziness, faintness, apprehension, headache, weakness, difficulty in sleeping—and a whole list of others.

GROUP STUDIED

About three years ago an extremely interesting study of a rather large group of patients who had had such complaints was conducted some 20 years after the diagnosis had been originally made. The results of this survey were most encouraging.

It was found, for one thing, that fewer deaths occurred in this group of patients than would be expected in a similar group of the same ages. In other words, they seem to have a better chance of living than if they did not have these annoying symptoms.

Another interesting finding was that while these symptoms are supposed to be signs of exaggerated anxiety, the patients were not particularly likely to get other diseases which are supposed to be brought on, at least partially, by worry and fear, such as ulcers of the stomach, asthma and high blood pressure.

LITTLE DISABILITY

It was also concluded from this study that this group of patients was suffering from a chronic disorder which did not interfere seriously with work, social or family life.

Twelve out of 100 recovered; 35 out of 100 had symptoms, but no disability; 38 out of 100 had symptoms with mild disability, and only 15 of 100 had symptoms with moderate or severe interference with their work or living conditions.

With such relatively favorable conclusions concerning the effects, or rather lack of them, from this disorder, it seems safe to conclude that most of those who have these unpleasant symptoms should cease to worry unduly and try to learn to live with their ailments, giving them no more attention than they can help.

Civil Service Publication Tells of Arbitration Fight

The B.C. Government Employees' Association has just issued an eight-page newspaper to its 8,500 members, reminding them they are still without the right to arbitration.

Publication of a newspaper by the association is an unusual occurrence. Much interest has been created by its appearance, coming, as it does, just prior to election time.

Civil servants quickly and vigorously repudiate any suggestion that the association is seeking to play politics, but some have acknowledged that their publication headed, "The Story of Your Fight for Your Civil Right," appears "strategically timed."

The paper is unusual in that it consists almost entirely of reproductions of news stories, editorials, letters to editors and advertisements on the arbitration question which have appeared since the first of the year in British Columbia's daily and weekly press.

SINGLE EDITORIAL

The only actual, original insertion in a seven-line editorial on the front page, stating that the purpose of the paper is "to enable each of them (association members) to be aware of the results of our campaign in terms of press coverage and press support received."

"Your association hopes that you will find this paper interesting and informative," the editorial goes on. "When you have finished it do not throw it away—pass it along to your friends."

News items from daily papers used throughout carry their original headlines. Samples are: "Cabinet Stalling Charged," "Civil Servants Demand Gov't Act," "Premier Ignored Bid, Civil Servants Claim," "Gov't Turns Deaf Ear to Arbitration," "B.C. Gov't Have No Effect On Sacred Gov't," "MLA Labor Men Critical of Wicks."

The association publication, on pages devoted to reproduction of editorial comment on the civil servants' case, sets out those both for and against them.

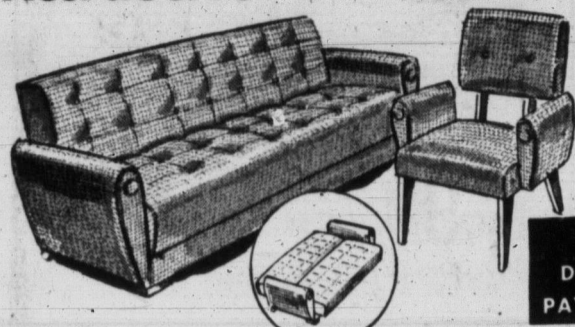

William Osgoode, appointed in 1922 as the first chief justice of Upper Canada, died in 1824.

British Fail In Attempts On Mt. Everest

Expedition Starts Descent Next Week

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Reliable reports reaching here today said the British Everest expedition failed in two attempts to reach the 29,002-foot top of Mt. Everest, the world's highest peak. No man ever has scaled it and returned to tell about it.

The expedition now is returning from the Himalayan giant, with plans to make another try after the monsoon season.

(The story of the two attempts and failures reported by the United Press was carried by 'The Times' in the Monday edition. No other news agency carried the dispatch, which time has proven to be correct.)

Highly reliable sources said the expedition will start the descent from the base camp the first week in June, and it is definite there will be no more attempts this season.

The sources added that nature played the same old bad trick again, bone-chilling winds, nerve-killing, blinding snow and an approaching treacherous monsoon, which would make a delayed return dangerous.

Thus Col. John Hunt's attempt has gone the way of 10 others before him. Nine of these attempts have been British and two Swiss.

Seattle Censors Tell Tobacco Road To Modify Scenes

SEATTLE (AP) — Erskine Caldwell's "Tobacco Road" will be permitted to continue showing in Seattle but only after some modifications.

The Seattle Board of Theatre Supervisors Wednesday night advised the manager of the Everyman Repertory Company of Vancouver, B.C., to make changes in a first act love scene and to eliminate some of the cursing. The company manager agreed to the revisions.

Coronation Day National Holiday

TORONTO (CP) — Coronation Day in Canada has been proclaimed a national holiday. That means federal government offices and banks will close. So will most provincial government buildings and schools.

Whether the day is a paid holiday for workers is a matter of contract between employer and employee.

NO PUZZLE WINNER AGAIN; TOMORROW'S WORTH $125

Once again Victoria Times crossword puzzles have failed to come up with the correct solution of the weekly crossword contest and the $100 prize was not won. Biggest stumbling block was the word "flinch." Most people answered clinch to the definition "what a boxer may well do when he's in trouble."

Puzzle No. 10, which will appear tomorrow, will be worth $125. Correct answer to No. 9 is on Page 6.

HUTCHISON AT THE CORONATION

Bruce Pictures an Ecstatic London; Queen Presides at Gala Garden Fete

Busy Queen Keeps Smiling

Extra Police Break Up Milling Crowd at Abbey

LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth presided today at the first gala garden party of the Coronation year at Buckingham Palace.

Seven thousand guests from the United States, the Commonwealth and much of the rest of the world, filled the vast palace lawns, under brilliant spring sunshine.

A great crowd gathered outside the palace to see the distinguished guests arrive behind the spike-topped walls the Queen moved gracefully among the throng, nodding and smiling to the visitors.

Long striped awnings covered tables where guests took tea and cakes, iced coffee and lemonade.

Military bands played throughout the two-hour party.

Meanwhile, another large crowd, so large that police reinforcements were called to break it up, gathered at the entrance to Westminster Abbey where Queen Mother Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and other members of the Royal family were rehearsing their own procession.

Police had to clear a path through the Westminster Abbey crowds for arriving dignitaries, but before they could do so the Earl and Countess of Harwood were engulfed by good-natured sight-seers and had to struggle through to the Abbey entrance.

For all London, save the children, it will be the last Coronation and it will be by far the most splendid in the long pageant of British monarchy.

President Says U.S. Sticks by UN Allies

Compiled from UP, CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said flatly today that he does not share the view of Sen. Robert A. Taft that the United States should forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned.

He said the Senate Republican leader is entitled to his own convictions, but that in the president's opinion, a "go-it-alone" policy has no place in American planning.

The chief executive told his news conference that no single free nation can live alone in this world.

The president went on to say that he would not be deflected by anyone in his effort to lead the free world.

A reporter pointed out that Taft's position actually was based on the possibility of the truce negotiations failing. This newsman said that he thought Taft made clear that if negotiations fail, then the United States should go it alone, withdraw from further negotiations and finish the war alone if necessary.

The president said that Taft must have meant that the United States should insist on following its own convictions and beliefs. Mr. Eisenhower said he could not believe that Taft wanted to throw out U.S. allies.

Democrats in Congress generally were critical of Taft's position. Republicans reacted cautiously.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) was particularly barbed in his comments. He said Taft may be to blame if the current Korean truce talks collapse. Sparkman said Taft's statement in effect "torpedoed" an armistice statement Mr. Eisenhower had made Tuesday.

The president warned the newsmen that any discussion of foreign relations on his part might lead to a long lecture, but since the question had been raised, he would talk about it.

He said he has had years of experience in dealing with coalitions and realizes there are certain occasions where action by one nation or one authority might be better.

But he said co-operative action can not be limited to selected parts of the globe.

He said a nation can not pick and choose where it wants to operate co-operatively or go it alone.

He said that if a nation wants to go it alone in one place, it can live alone in the world, but must have friends.

Eisenhower said he realizes that every man is faced with irritations and frustrations in the business of trying to win world peace, and that men find themselves balked.

Eisenhower said then with much feeling that only patience, optimism and a very deep faith can carry the U.S. forward.

He said no single free nation can live alone everywhere, and that in any long-term partnership, the partners have to share the ups and downs.

No single free nation can live alone in this world, the president said. A free nation must have friends, and must have unity and joint purpose that comes from common interest.

The president said he shares the irritation and frustration of a person who finds himself balked by ignorance or the errors of someone who is his friend.

He conceded there are differences of opinion within the United States, but said he earnestly believed this would not desert the great purpose for which it has been working.

He said it might be easier in certain cases for any one nation to act by itself.

But, Eisenhower added, you can't have co-operative action in these great matters only in isolated cases.

No Single Nation Can Live Alone

He said that if you go it alone in one place, you, of course, have to go it alone elsewhere.

Instead of taking that kind of course, Eisenhower said, there must be compromises which will serve the good of all of us.

Those compromises, he added, must be between local conflicting considerations.

He said no single free nation

Threats Made to Close Nursing Home

In a heated altercation with Mayor Claude Harrison in city council meeting this afternoon, F. E. Winslow, president of the Victoria Nursing Home, Gorge Road, said his society would turn the property back to the city and let the city close the home. Told by the mayor to "shut up," Mr. Winslow defied the chief magistrate and invited him to call the police.

Champion Advances in British Golf

HOYLAK, Eng. (UP)—Defending champion Harvie Ward of Atlanta, Ga., advanced to the quarterfinals of the British Amateur Golf Tournament today with a 5 and 3 victory over G. B. Wolstenholme of England.

Ward was the only American to survive the morning fifth round when he defeated Alan Turner of England, 7 and 6. Six fellow Americans were eliminated in the morning play.

Coronation Opens Jail Doors Friday

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. penitentiary and Okalla prison farm announced today that jail doors will swing open Friday for 132 men whose sentences have been reduced as an act of mercy to mark the Coronation.

The penitentiary will release 22 men and Okalla is freeing 84 men and six women.

NO PUZZLE WINNER AGAIN; TOMORROW'S WORTH $125

Once again Victoria Times crossword puzzlers have failed to come up with the correct solution of the weekly crossword contest and the $100 prize was not won. Biggest stumbling block was the word "filch." Most people answered clinch to the definition "what a boxer may well do when he's in trouble."

Puzzle No. 10, which will appear tomorrow, will be worth $125. Correct answer to No. 9 is on page 6.

VICTORIA BALL CLUB IN LAST-DITCH APPEAL

Saanich Works At Standstill On Strike Call

Reeve Refuses Volunteer Workers Entry at Municipal Hall Doors

Saanich's 150 municipal employees, seeking wage increases, went on strike at 9 a.m. today.

All employees of the municipality with the exception of police and firemen, downed tools or left their desks today.

The municipal hall and all projects, including the $2,500,000 sewer construction job, were picketed by employees throughout the 38-square mile municipality.

(See Pictures, Page 15)

The strike affected work on drainage, waterworks and road projects in the municipality.

Administrative work and business at the municipal hall ceased also.

The inside employees are members of the Saanich Employees' Association which bargains for all municipal workers.

Twenty-five men and women who reported to clear up month-end work were refused admission to the municipal hall by Reeve Joe Casey.

The reeve had no comment.

Alone, John Tribe, municipal clerk, tried to cope with the mass of routine work.

Work stoppage at the municipal hall means there will be no tax bill collecting, water meter reading or general accounting.

The strike will also affect building and private contractors doing work for the municipality.

Spokesman for the strikers, T. C. Gooderham, TLC national representative, said the union will do emergency work.

The strike is not affecting essential services such as fire, police and garbage collection or the health department.

A few employees, including Mr. Tribe, municipal clerk; H. D. Dawson, municipal engineer, and other heads of departments, are not involved.

VOTED WEDNESDAY

The employees decided to take strike action at a meeting held in the Douglas Street CCF Hall Wednesday.

David Shepherd, president of the association, said a vote was taken at the meeting and the majority of employees was in favor of a strike in view of Saanich council's refusal to negotiate further for a wage agreement.

The council on Monday made a "final offer" to the employees and refused to discuss the matter any further.

The offer provided 5 1/2 cents more an hour for all laborers who are now earning $12.44 an hour; all wages of employees paid by the hour to be increased by the same percentage, 4.62 per cent, and a 3 per cent increase for all employees paid by the month.

Mr. Shepherd said the association was ready to accept the majority of the offer made by the council, but felt that some minor adjustments should be made to a few categories of workers.

"By refusing to discuss the matter further with the association they left the employees with no other choice but to strike," commented Mr. Gooderham. "The council does not know how near or how far the employees came to accepting the so-called final offer."

Plate Contender From B.C.

Food for Thot, B.C.'s contender for the Queen's Plate, has arrived in Toronto for the 94th running of the spring classic June 2. The three-year-old son of Cum Laude was bred and is owned by Dr. L. H. Appleby, prominent Vancouver surgeon. He is shown with his groom, Ernie Marginson.

QUEEN AT GARDEN FETE

Hutchison Pictures An Ecstatic London

(Following is the first of the dispatches by Bruce Hutchison editor of the Victoria Times, who is now in London to cover the Coronation. Mr. Hutchison has just returned to England after a tour of the continent. His description of the colorful Coronation day scene itself will be featured in The Times next Tuesday.)

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

LONDON—"Pop" Mundy of Story Street, Islington, a lean, wrinkled little man of 82, has seen four coronations, is preparing for his fifth, and whether he knows it or not is the spirit of London incarnate.

At this electric moment in England's history he spends his lonely nights as a factory watchman. At dawn he becomes an artist in tattered cockney cap and shirt-sleeves.

He is desperately putting final touches to his masterpiece—transformation of Story Street from bombed-out relic of Hitler's blitz into a royal avenue of blossom and banners worthy of his Queen.

Mr. Mundy's paint brush has covered all the rusty railings of Story Street with stripes of red, white and blue. For weeks now, as his private testament of defiance and hope, he has been painting huge Union Jacks on broken brick walls which still proclaim the heroism of England's little people and with the help of Mrs. Rosie Saars, the florist on the corner, he is filling all the windows of Story Street with flowers, bunting and golden paper crowns.

By the morning of Coronation day every wartime scar on this shattered little fragment of London will be hidden and by Coronation night, with a fund of £120 raised by neighbors, Story Street will announce its loyalty to Queen Elizabeth in its own fashion.

Tyees Need $10,000 To Stay in Business

By BILL WALKER, Times Sports Editor

Directors of Victoria Baseball & Athletic Co. have resorted to a last-ditch scheme for keeping the Tyees in business for the remainder of the season.

They will put on sale tonight 1,000 books of admission tickets at $10 apiece. The club must have all books sold within four days.

Arthur Cox, club president, pointed up the seriousness of the situation when he telephoned from Vancouver today: "There is every likelihood professional baseball will fold unless the sum of $10,000 is raised by Monday."

Each $10 book will provide baseball followers with 11 tickets.

General manager Reg Patterson explained: "This money will not be used if the full objective of $10,000 is not reached. In that case, money from the tickets sold will be refunded."

The club is currently paying off its 1953 park rental from its share of revenue from billboard advertising and concessions at a rate which will have them paid up for this season by July 1.

Eisenhower Disowns Taft's Stand on UN

Course He Charted; Party Is Cautious

Course He Charted; Party Is Cautious

Compiled from UP, CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower said flatly today that he does not share the view of Sen. Robert A. Taft that the United States should forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned.

He said the Senate Republican leader is entitled to his own convictions, but that in the president's opinion, a "go-it-alone" policy has no place in American planning.

The chief executive told his news conference that no single free nation can live alone in this world.

The president went on to say that he would not be deflected by anyone in his effort to lead this country along the course he has charted.

A reporter pointed out that Taft's position actually was based on the possibility of the truce negotiations failing. This newsman said that he thought Taft made clear that if negotiations fail, then the United States should go it alone, withdraw from further negotiations and finish the war alone if necessary.

The president said that Taft must have meant that the United States should insist on following its own convictions and beliefs. Mr. Eisenhower said he could not believe that Taft wanted to throw out U.S. Allies.

Democrats in Congress generally were critical of Taft's position. Republicans reacted cautiously.

Sparkman Would Blame Taft

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) was particularly barbed in his comments. He said Taft may be to blame if the current Korean truce talks collapse. Sparkman said Taft's statement in effect "torpedoed" an armistice statement Mr. Eisenhower had made Tuesday.

The President warned the newsmen that any discussion of foreign relations on his part might lead to a long lecture, but since the question had been raised, he would talk about it.

He said he has had years of experience in dealing with coalitions and realizes there are certain occasions where action by one nation or one authority might be better.

But he said co-operative action can not be limited to selected parts of the globe.

The President said he shares the irritation and frustration of a person who finds himself balked by ignorance or the errors of someone who is his friend.

LIBERAL LEADER WINDS UP 3,200-MILE TOUR

Laing Assails Socreds' Education Formula Before Nanaimo Crowd

BY GORDON FORBES
Times Political Reporter

NANAIMO—Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, 20 pounds lighter, but gaining confidence daily in his party's chances June 9, wound up his 3,200-mile campaign tour here Wednesday night and headed home to do some electioneering on his own behalf.

Mr. Laing, exhibiting dogged determination throughout a rugged campaign, will spend most of the remainder of the campaign in Vancouver-Point Grey where he's faced with the formidable task of beating Education Minister Tilly Roalson.

He'll make one side trip to Victoria June 3, but the rest of the time the leader will whip up his own campaign, sadly neglected by himself because of his efforts on behalf of his fellow candidates.

Mr. Laing, addressing more than 200 persons in the Plaza Auditorium in support of candidate Elmer Bradshaw, flailed away at the Socreds' Roalson Formula and the person who gave her name to the controversial school financing plan. "The poor woman (Mrs. Roalson) hadn't the foggiest idea what the formula was all about," said Mr. Laing. "And she doesn't know yet."

He noted Mrs. Roalson isn't even mentioning the formula in her campaign speeches. But he wasn't surprised about that. The burden the formula
